Russian Army Driven Back, Poles Claim

LAUNCH STIFF COUNTER-DRIVE AGAINST REDS

FIGHT IN SWAMP LANDS

Defenders Still Hold Lwow While Pitched Battles Rage in Suburbs.

(By International News Service)

BUDAPEST — Inflicting heavy casualties on Soviet troops, Polish forces east of Brest-Litovsk reformed their lines today and opened a heavy counter-offensive in the regions evacuated by the German armies.

Reports received in Budapest by way of Cernauti, Rumania, told of striking blows dealt by the "mushroom" Polish armies, which sprang up almost overnight with little organization or equipment but with an unquenchable desire for vengeance upon the invaders.

German troops withdrew from the area immediately after Russian and German military officials mapped the partition of Poland at Brestlitovsk.

As soon as the motorized German columns had withdrawn, the Poles swiftly reunited forces previously divided by a German wedge and launched a telling attack upon the Russians.

Battle In Swamps.

A tremendous battle was reported in the swamps near Grudno, where Russian motorized units and tank sank deep in the marshy ground.

Fierce Polish attacks also were reported on the Vilna-Bialystok line.

The cities of Lwow and Luk remained in Polish hands, the Cernauti reports stated, with pitched battles raging in their suburbs comparable to the fighting in Warsaw itself.

The reports received in Budapest spoke of "serious Soviet casualties" and "strong Polish resistance" not only near Gruino but in the Carpathian mountain area as well.

BREMEN SEIZED?

Reports Persist British Have Captured Big Liner.

LONDON— (UP) —Reports were prevalent today that the 53,000-ton $20,000,000 German liner Bremen, third largest passenger ship in the world, had arrived at a British port under a warship escort, a British prize.

There had been reports for several days that the Bremen had been captured.

The Bremen sailed from New York Aug. 30. It was reported safe at ports all over the North and South Atlantic, and in Italy. If the Bremen had been captured by the British it would be no surprise if the British had withheld the news for days or weeks, because that is part of their policy.

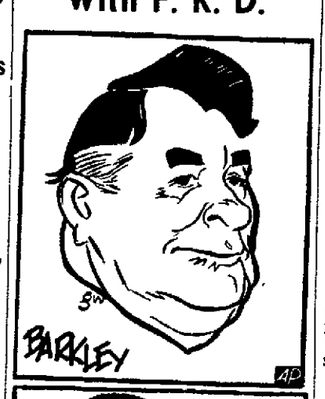
President Calls for Arms Embargo Repeal as Congress Opens Session

With F. R. D.



These three senators are supporting President Roosevelt's requests proposals for revision of the neutrality law to permit the United States to sell arms to belligerents on a "cash and carry" basis.

Tells House And Senate United States Should Revert To International Law In 'Appalling War.'

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt today called upon the extraordinary session of congress to repeal the embargo on shipment of U. S. arms to the warring nations of Europe and a return to international law.

Before both the house and senate and a gallery packed with the diplomats of all the world powers, the president struck at the outset of his special message at the present neutrality law.

This neutrality which embraces an absolute embargo on arms, the president said, "so alters the historic foreign policy of the United States that it impairs the peaceful relations of the United States with foreign nations."

The president read in slow and deliberate pace through six pages of type-written text in asking for a reversion to international law and the end of what remains of a neutrality law passed with such high purpose a few years ago.

And the president told the closely-listening members of the two branches in congress, just returned to Washington at his bidding to meet an extraordinary situation, that he, too, was for "peace."

Mr. Roosevelt said that it ill behooved any of the members to assume the "exclusive label of the peace 'bloc'."

"We all belong to it," the president asserted.

Once more, the president outlined the efforts he had made to keep the United States out of "the present appalling war."

"In my candid judgment we shall succeed in these efforts," he declared.

"I give to you my deep and my unalterable conviction, based on years of experience as a worker in the world of international peace," declared the president, "that by the repeal of the embargo, the United States will more probably remain at peace than if the law remains as it stands today.

"I say this because with the repeal of the embargo this government clearly and definitely will insist that American citizens and American ships keep away from the immediate perils of the actual zones of conflict."

Anticipating the opposition his proposals will get in the senate, the president said:

"Because I am wholly willing to ascribe an honorable desire for peace to those who hold different views from my own as to what those measures should be, I trust that these gentlemen will be sufficiently generous to ascribe equally lofty purposes to those with whom they disagree.

"Let no man or group in any walk of life assume exclusive protectorate over the future well-being of America—because I conceive that regardless of party or section the mantle of peace and of patriotism is wide enough to cover us all. Let no group assume the exclusive label of the bloc 'peace.' We all belong to it."

Then summing up his appeal for a return to international law, Mr. Roosevelt put himself and his administration plainly on record. He said:

"The position of the executive branch of the government is that the age-old and time-honored doctrine of interna-

WRITER SEES WEST FRONT'S BATTLE LINES

Declares French Have Driven Germans Back to Strongest Fortifications.

TOLD OF NAZI SURPRISE

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
(INS Staff Correspondent)

ON THE WESTERN FRONT IN THE SAAR REGION—As reconnaissance planes roared overhead and intermittent heavy firing shattered the pastoral stillness of the Saar valley, I arrived on captured German territory today with the first group of newspapermen permitted to visit the front lines.

This dispatch is being written at a spot east of the Franco-German frontier that I am not at liberty to disclose.

But it is where the actual hostilities are in progress. I have already witnessed action along the front and viewed two captured towns—Neunkrich and—believe it or not—Hitlerdorf.

The latter village in the hills north of Sarreguemines east of the Saar river looked forlorn and deserted. I picked up a box of German matches and a French corporal gave me an abandoned Nazi flag that he had taken as a souvenir.

I have heard intermittent firing up in the front lines throughout the day and it is continuing now that dusk is beginning to fall.

French Balloon Down.

A French observation balloon was brought down by a German plane a few minutes before our arrival at one point on the frontier, but the French observer parachuted to safety.

At another point near the border we saw French anti-aircraft guns in action against three German reconnaissance planes flying very high. The planes fled out of range as black streaks and white puffs of two types of anti-aircraft shells appeared magically in the skies. I understand that one of these planes was brought down later at another point.

The picture I gained of the situation from this first visit to the actual front beyond the Maginot line can be summed up briefly thus:

The French have driven the Germans back to their permanent and strongest fortifications all along the line from the Moselle to the Rhine.

There are no big concentrations as in the last war. That is because of the present efficiency of British Flying Boats Save Seamen on Torpedoed Ship.

LONDON — (AP) — The British government announced today that two Royal Air force flying patrol boats had rescued the crew of 34 of the steamship Kensington Court which sent out an SOS after having been attacked by a submarine.

A ministry of information announcement said that the rescue, somewhere in the Atlantic ocean, was the first case in which an entire ship's crew had been picked up at sea by flying boats.

The Kensington Court was a 4,863-ton vessel, owned by the Court line. London was her port of registry.

Censorship Controls Flow of War News

(By Associated Press)

Censorship of news is effective in nearly all European countries. It is especially thorough in Great Britain, France and Germany.

So far the chief apparent hindrance imposed by censorship has been disruption of normal communications, but it is obvious that censors seek to prevent the sending of unfavorable news from their respective countries.

Some news dispatches are transmitted in ten or fifteen minutes; others are delayed for hours and some doubtless are suppressed by the censorship.

Assassins Kill Nazi Foe While He Rides In Car

'Strong Man' Calinescu, Who Once Beat Down Pro-Nazi Iron Guard, Killed As Six Assailants Fire Guns Into Auto, Stalled On Way To Royal Palace.

BULLETIN

BUCHAREST—(AP)—Troops were called up here today after the slaying of Prime Minister Armand Calinescu to prevent what authorities feared might be an attempted coup against the government. It was believed that Calinescu had been killed by Iron Guards, a Nazi organization, which Calinescu had rigidly suppressed.

(By United Press)

BUCHAREST—Six youthful assassins shot and killed Premier Armand Calinescu, vigorous foe of the pro-Nazi Iron Guard organization, this afternoon while he was driving by automobile to the royal palace.

The shooting occurred while, it was understood, the 46-year-old premier was en route for an interview with King Carol, whose government had suppressed the Iron Guard organization on charges of terrorism.

The premier's automobile apparently was blocked for the moment—either by accident or intentionally—by a large truck.

The truck lumbered across the street, blocking a line of traffic. As the premier's automobile slowed down, the six assassins leaped from their hiding place and ran toward it.

One of them yanked open the door of Calinescu's automobile. There were shouts and then a sharp volley of shots fired point blank and at arm's length, according to spectators.

The premier, easily identified by the black monocle he wore as a result of loss of one eye in childhood, was struck by two bullets.

One of the bullets entered his chest on the right side. The other—fired squarely at his face—entered his one good eye, the right one.

He collapsed and seemed to have lost consciousness at once.

Pronounced Dead.

Calinescu was taken from the automobile and carried to the nearby University hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

A few seconds later the Bucharest radio station interrupted a musical program and an excited voice shouted:

"Calinescu is killed."

The station then became silent for 15 minutes, after which the announcer said:

"We are sorry for the interruption on account of an unfortunate incident."

After firing the shots, the assassins jumped into an automobile which was waiting for them. It bore license plates of the city of Floresat.

They raced through the streets to the radio station, where they were joined by several other conspirators.

All carried revolvers in their hands.

The band rushed into the radio room and shouted a message into the microphone apparently in an effort to give signal.

(It was assumed the attack on the station was an attempt to

JOIN FIGHT TO KEEP ARMS BAN

Mansfielders Sign Petitions to Legislators, Urge Them to Maintain Neutrality Act.

As President Roosevelt appeared before a joint session of the senate and house in Washington today to request revision of the neutrality law, a group of Mansfield citizens, including city and county officials, joined in a campaign opposing any changes in the act.

Several petitions were in circulation throughout the city and in city and county offices opposing the repeal of the mandatory embargo against shipments of arms and implements of war to belligerent nations.

The petitions are addressed to U. S. Senators Robert A. Taft and A. Vic Donahey and Congressman William Ashbrook soliciting their favorable action in maintaining United States neutrality.

"We respectfully but strenuously solicit your favorable action to maintain the present neutrality act, thereby keeping the United States out of any foreign entanglements or the sacrificing of any lives for profits," the petitions state.

In the hands of Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., the petitions will be forwarded to Washington this week. Among those who have signed them are Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, City Engineer W. C. Statler, County Recorder Howard Wenning, Deputy Sheriff Frank Robinson, Ralph Hardy, Richland county Republican executive committee chairman, and Jesse Beer, principal at Senior high school.

In addition William Beer said that letters had been sent to officials in nearby cities and counties requesting them to take similar action.

Allies and Germans are all set for action on the western front—so well set, in fact, that either would be courting disaster by employing undue haste in initiating a major offensive.

Hence the comparative inactivity so far.

There's no call for rush at this juncture. The crushing of Poland removes the necessity of an immediate Allied attack to relieve pressure on the Poles. The Nazis still haven't broken away from Hitler's policy of not fighting the Allies unless forced, on the grounds that Germany has no quarrel with

VETS KNOW WAR, TALK OF PEACE

Strict Neutrality Keynote as Legion Honors Gardner, Installs Officers.

Richland county's American Legion members, the men who know what war is like, talked little of war last night as they honored R. B. "Mud" Gardner of Mansfield who will become state commander of the Legion Oct. 7, and installed 38 officers of five county posts at the Legion home here.

Gardner sounded the keynote of the Ohio Legion's program, however, by asserting that "in strict neutrality will lie the broad road to permanent peace."

It was a big night for about 275 Mansfield and county Legionnaires who gave a reception for Gardner and conducted installation ceremonies for county post officers following a dinner at the McVey post home on Park avenue west. The group showed its appreciation for Gardner's work in the Legion by presenting him with a repeating shotgun.

Despite the presnt conflict in Europe, the men made only brief reference to the war. Apparently they heeded the advice of Gardner, the Ohio commander-elect, who urged them to "be conservative in your statements about war and think before you say you will or won't fight again."

The present state commander, Eli Jensen of Springfield, who attended the ceremonies, also mentioned the war crisis briefly.

Looking to the national Legion convention in Chicago next week, Jensen said he was confident that Mansfield and Ohio delegates to the convention will base their decision on neutrality on sound reason and help to steer America on a sane course in the face of European troubles."

WEST: French And British Push Groundwork For Big Offensive

(By International News Service)

PARIS—Refusing to be stampeded, French and British military authorities today went carefully ahead with a program designed to lay the groundwork for the first grand offensive of the war—which may not begin for two weeks or more.

War communique No. 35 succinctly described the situation: "There was local activity of contacting elements, and artillery action by both sides."

In the midst of this firing, French advance forces in the Moselle river, Saarbruecken, and Wissembourg sectors, engaged in "feeling out" enemy positions, surprised certain German units. Minor clashes resulted in hand-to-hand fighting.

The intention of the French commanders was to test the ground over which they intend to try to force an advance in the next few days, also to net a few prisoners for information about the regiments and strength of the German troops opposing them. Suc-

BERLIN: Goebbels Breaks Silence In Press Interview

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—For the first time since outbreak of war in Europe, Propaganda Minister Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels broke his silence today, summoning the foreign press to his office to deny any intention on the part of Nazi Germany to violate the neutrality of Belgium or Holland.

The little Nazi spokesman took occasion to deal ironically with foreign reports that he had disagreed with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and had been dismissed from office.

He appeared before the correspondents in person to dispose of one rumor, heard in Amsterdam, that he was actually dead, and declared it was "beneath his dignity," to deal with assertions that seven leading Nazis have deposited a total of more than $34,000,000 in cash, bonds and life insurance holdings abroad.

(In an exclusive dispatch from London yesterday H. R. Knickerbocker, correspondent of International News Service, disclosed in detail authoritative information regarding these holdings. All of the leading figures in the Nazi regime with the exception of Hitler himself, he revealed, have deposited huge fortunes abroad. Goebbels was named as the holder of the largest cash amounts of all.)

"I wish to deny most categorically," Goebbels said, "all reports appearing in the foreign press during the last few days to the effect that the German army is contemplating a violation of the neutrality of Belgium or Holland."

When Goebbels showed himself inclined to answer further questions, he was asked about the status of Luxembourg.

"Luxembourg is included in my statement," he said.

FICTION HEADED BY ZONA GALE'S LAST NOVEL

'Magna,' Story of Typical U. S. Girl, Among Additions at Library This Week.

A new book by Zona Gale was always important news to the thousands who read and love her American novels, so that the announcement of her posthumous novelette is of particular interest, following as it does, several months after her death. It is one of the seven new fiction books added by the Public library this week.

MAGNA is Miss Gale's novelette of a typical American girl who decides between two young men who love her. Bolo Marks, a good-looking young doctor, has little money, while Alec Pethnier, Magna's Scotch cousin, is heir to a fine business in Scotland. The young Magna Pethnier is indifferent to their means, but concerned with the substance of their loves.

WATCH FOR THE DAWN is Stuart Cloete's new novel of the Boers in South Africa in 1815 and 1816. Kasper van der Berg, a young Cape Town Boer, travels through the less settled parts of South Africa seeking to learn whether the French ideas of liberty, equality and brotherhood can be applied where he lives.

STAR SPANGLED VIRGIN is Du Bose Heyward's novel of life on the Virgin Islands under the "Noodeal." Rhoda Berg and Adam Work, two natives, find their lives strangely disturbed by governmental progress.

Other new fiction includes:

PRAIRIE SMOKE by Drago.

VERY HEAVEN by Aldington.

SHE KNEW THREE BROTHERS by Widdemer.

WITH LAND IN SIGHT by Montross.

On the 100th anniversary of the birthday of Frances Willard, the library joins in the celebration in honor of this woman by adding to its collection the biography by Lydia Trowbridge, FRANCES WILLARD OF EVANSTON.

Mrs. Trowbridge is the daughter of the man who, as president of Northwestern Female College, did much to encourage the shy undergraduate who later became the famous Woman's Christian Temperance Union leader, and was also the first woman in the United States to hold the position of college president.

Shows Her Influence.

Interesting evidence of the influence of Miss Willard is the Centenary Souvenir map which shows the many memorials erected in the United States to perpetuate in practical institutions her dreams for human betterment, such as schools, a hospital, a settlement house, and numerous other structures. The map is a gift of the National Willard Centenary Commission and will be on display at the library during Willard Week, Sept. 24 to 30.

SUTTER: THE MAN AND HIS EMPIRE by James Peter Zollinger, traces Sutter's life not only in Switzerland, the country of his birth, but through the American continent from New York to St. Louis, to Santa Fe, along the Oregon Route, all over California, and back to Pennsylvania where he lies buried. The author's research has uncovered much new material which brings out the fascinating double personality of a man overly endowed with brilliant gifts and lamentable weaknesses.

LET THE RECORD SPEAK by Dorothy Thompson is a compilation of the newspaper columns which this author contracted to write three times a week on world affairs, beginning with the spring of 1936.

Also on the non-fiction list is:

MUSIC AND ITS MAKERS, La Violette.

MUSIC SINCE 1900, Slonimsky.

COUNTERPOINT AND HARMONY, Bairstow.

BACKSTAGE AT THE OPERA, Wollstein.

ORCHESTRATION, Forsyth.

'Baby Ambulance' Saves Lives of Premature Babies

CLEVELAND — (AP) — A new "baby ambulance" designed to save the lives of premature babies which weigh little more than a pound at birth was demonstrated before the American Congress of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

It is a small steel box in which tiny infants can be placed, its cover closed and oxygen administered. The interior heat is kept at the proper temperature until the infant can be transported to an incubator in the hospital.

The designers, Miss Evelyn Lundeen and Miss Helen Bachle, of Michael Reese hospital, Chicago, and Dr. Herman Bundesen, director of the Chicago board of health, declares that two such ambulances had saved the lives of several hundred premature babies born in Chicago homes in the last year.

Dr. Alexander M. Campbell of Grand Rapids, Mich., told the congress that every death of a mother or child in childbirth represents an economic loss of $5,000 to the nation, or a total annual loss of almost $820,000,000.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

MAJOR BOWES SALUTES MANSFIELD

TONIGHT FROM 8:00 TO 9:00 P. M.
OVER YOUR CBS STATION

AND THE ENTIRE COAST-TO-COAST COLUMBIA NETWORK

To the Major:

This advertisement is sponsored by the civic-minded Mansfield institutions below named which are deeply appreciative of the compliment you are paying our city this evening. They regard your selection of Mansfield as an honor that will be long cherished and remembered. To the many thousands in Mansfield who hold you in deep esteem, this tribute is a sentimental one.

Your message to all parts of the United States, and many parts of the world emphasizing Mansfield's many advantages should prove of great interest to your millions of listeners.

The following industries take this means of expressing appreciation of your fine work and your friendly gesture to this community.

THE MANSFIELD TIRE AND RUBBER COMPANY

The community at large can view today's citation of Mansfield over the national networks only as a genuine tribute to its enterprise and spirit. This company is proud to have shared in the progress of this community. But with this pride has gone a keen appreciation of the good will which home people bear toward their local industries.

The Mansfield Tire & Rubber company is particularly appreciative of the fine acceptance which local car owners accord its product. Within the past year, our local facilities have been improved, and our service extended. The city and the surrounding area has gratifyingly responded.

Today, this company looks forward to even greater accomplishment on the part of Mansfield. We ask nothing better, or more worth while, than to participate further in the achievement of the community in which we work and live.

THE OHIO BRASS COMPANY

Major Bowes! The Ohio Brass Company, oldest of Mansfield's major industrial enterprises, salutes you and the friendly ideals of American community life which you foster!

Founded in 1888, the Ohio Brass Company has grown steadily until it has become one of the world's largest manufacturers of high-tension porcelain insulation, brass valves and electrical equipment for mines, electric and steam railways. This steady growth of O-B's diversified interests has reflected itself directly in the progressing panorama of Mansfield community life, furnishing work for many men—pleasant livelihood for their families!

Tonight, as thousands of similar American communities listen to your message of good will, many of their radio sets will be powered by electricity insulated and protected by O-B porcelain. Much of this electric power will be generated from coal mined with the aid of O-B mining materials—the coal transported to the nation's power plants over railroads protected with O-B signal bonds!

EMPIRE SHEET AND TIN PLATE COMPANY

A thousand employees of Empire Sheet & Tin Plate Company as citizens of Mansfield hail you, Major Bowes, and the Chrysler Corporation and express sincere appreciation for honoring our community. As employees in the Steel Industry we salute Chrysler as a fine representative of the Automobile Industry whose progressive development and widening markets have contributed substantially to our employment. Many hundreds of tons of our handiwork are made manifest through the products which you manufacture. We wish to take this opportunity to sincerely commend the Chrysler Corporation for their high standards of reliability, service and progress to which qualities Empire has subscribed for years.

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC AND MANUFACTURING CO.

Westinghouse salutes you, Major Bowes, as you salute Mansfield tonight. Because of our whole-hearted pride in this community and in its development and progress, we welcome the occasion provided by tonight's broadcast to focus the attention of the nation on our city.

Westinghouse is happy to be a part of a community where men and women are keenly alive to personal and civic opportunity and advancement, and where, with their children, they may enjoy a full measure of health and happiness in their work and play.

Our company and its employes will continue to take an active part in Mansfield's growth and progress.

THE HUMPHRYES MANUFACTURING COMPANY

The Humphryes Manufacturing Company salutes you, Major Bowes, as you salute our city. Established in 1882, this company is proud to be a part of this thriving community.

Made here in Mansfield are HUMPHRYES Stylemaster Bathrooms . . . the finest finish . . . the newest in design . . . yet the cost is no more than ordinary Plumbing Fixtures.

CHAPTER X

"I've forgotten an important matter I must attend to," she told him. But Hale, rising, too, held her by the arm.

"Don't be in such an awful hurry. I haven't told you the name of our mutual friend."

"A lady?"

"Lord, no. One of the sterner sex."

"I've no curiosity about him. I've too many friends already."

"Perhaps you'd like to cross me off your list?"

Yvette smiled charmingly. "I shall, unless you let me go. Truly, I've an important errand."

"You said that before. Well our mutual friend is named Mosby. Now aren't you interested?"

"Dick Mosby? Why, no, I'm not interested in him now."

She had already started for the door. Laughing back over her shoulder she kept a few steps ahead of him, until they reached the house, then they went in together.

"Cocktail time?" she exclaimed, as she saw Wilkins bringing the essentials.

She ran upstairs to dress, which she did quickly. Her mind was full of pleasurable thrills and also some ill forebodings. She chose a simple white gown, and a hovering gilt butterfly in her dark hair and a pair of Cinderella-like gold slippers were her only adornments.

She went downstairs slowly, wondering what she was walking into.

Harley had rejoined the group and he rose to greet her with a look that seemed almost one of ownership. Craig looked at her curiously, Gifford Hale looked at her smilingly and Anita Boyce looked at her with admiring eyes and a heart black with jealousy.

After dinner Harley Madison looked round the room at his guests, then he rose and began to speak.

"Tonight," he said, "finds me the happiest man in the village of New Plymouth or in the whole length and breadth of Long Island. I am not fond of making speeches, nor do you care to hear one, so I will briefly tell you that I have won the loveliest and dearest girl in the world for my future bride That right, Yvette?"

He took a few steps toward her, and she met him half way, holding out both hands to him, and smiling up into his face.

Then the room was in an uproar. Harley and his affianced bride stood side by side and the good wishes and congratulations rent the air. Cheers were given, songs were sung, champagne appeared, causing more and merrier laughter and good-will. At last, Yvette sank into a chair from sheer exhaustion, and Harley sat beside her.

Cornelia, with a murmured excuse, left the room and returned in a moment. She brought with her the Madison pearls, a three strand marvel of perfectly matched pearls. Anita gave a little squeal, that Tom said afterward, sounded like a hurt dog, but every one else exclaimed with joy.

Cornelia clasped the necklace round the neck of her brother's bride-to-be, with a word of explanation.

"They are to be yours, Yvette," she said, "but not until your wedding-day. You must wear them tonight, and give them back to me tomorrow. Then when you are a real Madison, the Madison pearls shall be yours. God bless you."

"And to think," Laura Lee said, "that only a few days ago, Yvette stepped into this family—"

"And stepped into my heart!" Harley interrupted her. "I have heard of love at first sight, but I never hoped to experience it myself, yet I have!"

"A little bit of melodrama now," he said, after a moment; "I had a threatening letter today, from an enemy whom I had supposed to be a trusty friend In connection with my work in the village, you know. My present will devises half of my entire estate to the committee of village improvement. I now choose to rescind that bequest, and I want you all to bear witness that I hereby destroy it."

He produced a legal document, showed it around a bit, proving that it was as he said, then tore the paper into strips and threw them into the open fire. "Yvette," he said, turning to her, "tomorrow morning, I shall have my lawyer here, and he will draw my new will, in which you shall have a place."

When Wilkins went to his master's bedroom at eight o'clock the next morning, there was no response to his knock. Nor to his repeated rappings. Puzzled, he went downstairs again, and told Elkanah, the major-domo.

Using a ladder, Elkanah was enabled to look in the window and see Harley Madison apparently sound asleep. From his pocket he took the tools needed to remove a circular piece of glass from the window. He put his hand in and turned the catch, and flung the window up as far as it would go.

Then he stepped into the room. He went at once to the still form on the bed, and the look of rigidity and the coldness of the hand that he touched, left him no doubt that his master was in his last long sleep.

Elkanah told Wilkins and then he told Hetty. Hetty dressed, with the speed of a whirlwind, and said she'd tell Miss Cornelia herself

In Miss Madison's bedroom, the lady lay asleep Hetty waked her gently, gave her a moment to get fully awake, and then said:

"Miss Cornelia, ma'am," her voice was tremulous, "your brother, ma'am, he is in bed, and we think—we fear—he is dead."

Miss Madison sat up straight and looked at her.

"Who killed him?" she said.

When Hetty had told her husband, Elkanah, that she would break the news to Miss Madison, he had said, "Wonder how she'll take it."

And the wife of his bosom had returned, "Don't be dumb! You know exactly how she'll take it. Like a soldier! Miss Cornelia loves her brother and his death will break her heart, but she'll be as spunky as a treed cat. . . . What ailed him, Elk? Some unsuspected heart trouble, I suppose."

"See what you can do for Miss Madison. This ain't like no triflin' troubles she's had before, it's a blow! And she won't take it none so easy as you're makin' out. Go on, now."

"I'm dawdlin,' Elk, as you well know, cause I can't a-bear to go. I don't know what I shall say to her—"

"She'll do the sayin' once you've broke the news to her. Get along, now."

So Hetty went along, and when she told her sad tiding, Miss Cornelia stared at her, and said, "Who killed him?"

And Hetty answered:

"Why, nobody, ma'am. He wasn't killed, he just dropped off in his sleep. Folks often go that way. My brother-in-law, he was found dead in bed. Heart trouble, you see. Did you know Mr. Harley had heart trouble?"

"No. I'm sure he didn't. Help me into my clothes.

Cornelia Madison was running true to form. The shock of her brother's death, the quick realization of what she had to face, the sudden wave of grief and loneliness that swept her very soul, well nigh caused her to collapse utterly.

But she did not Of her own will, she put personal feelings aside; she gave her mind entirely to her duty to others and to her brother's mute appeal. On her developed the carrying on of his affairs and the honoring of his memory. But even as she thought these things she knew the immediate present was calling her. The boys must be told, Yvette must be told,—how could she do these things?

"Come with me, Hetty. I shall go first to my brother's room"

Marveling at this brave attitude, even though she had prophesied it, Hetty followed her mistress to Harley Madison's room.

The house was very wide. Where other houses had five or at most seven front windows on the second floor, Silver Hill had nine, and at either end of the row, a large ell showed many more. The house faced south, and at the east end were the rooms that had been the abode of Madison and his wife. When Florence died, Harley kept the same suite, and in the great corner bedroom the man now lay, white and still.

Hetty tarried outside the door as Cornelia went in, and Elkanah, who was on guard, joined his wife, so the sister went alone to look at her dead brother.

Somehow, it was the sudden and awful loneliness that affected her most deeply. How could she get along without Harley? He had looked after her so carefully all these years; and she had looked after him. How could she stand not having him to look after?

Her sense of duty and her unconquerable will power asserted themselves, and laying her hand for a moment on Harley's brown, she drew herself up and walked steadily from the room. Her two loyal helpers awaited her in the hall and she said; "Elkanah, I will go down to the living room. Get Mr. Craig and Mr. Tom out of bed and send them down there to me. Don't tell them what has happened, I want to tell them myself After you have them awake and getting dressed, then call Doctor Bascom on the telephone and ask him to come right over here. Don't tell him Mr. Madison is dead, just say he is very ill, but make him understand he is to come at once. Hetty, don't call Miss Verne yet, let me talk to the boys first. But stay around, and if she rings, you answer it, and ask her to get up and dress. Then let me know, and I'll go in to see her"

Cornelia went downstairs slowly, but her mind was galloping. Between the top step and the lowest one, she had planned the funeral, remembered distant relatives who must be notified, considered Yvette, thought of her house guests, but did not give one second's thought to her own plans or the arrangements for her own well-being.

She was in the living room but a few moments when Craig came, on his heels, Tom.

"You know?" she asked, and as they shook their heads wonderingly, she told them.

"Your Uncle Harley is dead," she said, simply. "He died in his sleep. I have sent for Doctor Bascom and he will be here soon There is much to do and many things to be attended to Just now it is our duty to consider such and leave our personal sorrow to be indulged in later. I hope this does not seem hard-hearted to you, but I realize better than you can, the conditions we must face, and—and I no longer have my brother to help me. I shall rely on you two for advice and assistance, and I know you will not fail me"

"You bet we won't!" Tom Sheldon crossed the room and sat beside his aunt "We're willing and glad to help, but you'll have to direct us, eh, Craig?"

"Have you told Yvette?" Craig asked, not answering his cousin.

"Not yet. I want to speak to you two first. I don't know what Yvette will want to do. It's a dreadful situation"

"I think we can feel sure you'll do the right thing there, Aunt Cornelia," Tom said, "but there may be trouble with the Village Committee"

"I don't think so," his aunt replied "Death cancels all contracts. But those things we must discuss with Mr. Ames and with the lawyer"

"Here comes Doctor Bascom," Craig said, "just driving in the gates What good can he do?"

"None," Cornelia replied. "But it is customary to call him. You boys take him upstairs, won't you, and I'll go and see Yvette."

Heretofore and hereafter the above will be a picture of Major Edward Bowes of radio fame, but for today it is Mayor Edward Bowes of Mansfield—not to mention Police Chief Bowes, Safety-Director Bowes and a few other honorary positions the genial showman will take on tonight when he honors Mansfield on his coast-to-coast broadcast over the Columbia network at 8 p m

STALKS SNAKE

UKIAH, Cal.—(U P)—The family cat of Surveyor Raymond J. Pearl, has been elevated to the rank of the bird-dog peerage on the strength of its performance in a crisis. Pearl discovered a rattlesnake curled up on his porch with the cat about a foot away. Pearl dashed to the rear of the house for a shovel while the cat in the meantime, taking up bird-dog tactics, stalked the snake until Pearl could get back and give the "coup de grace."

Book of the Week

The spirit, mind and body of France—

BY ONE of those happy coincidences that sometimes enliven the publishing world, three books which contain most of France are being published this week.

The first in importance right now is a book of Edouard Daladier's speeches called "In Defense of France" (Doubleday, Doran; $2.50). Inevitably, there is a good deal of familiar matter in the book, and some with small importance. But also there is the key to the French spirit, and some passages which sound, now that war really has come, like the voice of the archangel. Read this, delivered last spring.

"Certain people hope that France, invincible when united, will permit herself to be demoralized by the alternation of threats and promises of peace. It seems as though a new form of war without battles were being used against France, a war of uncertainty, of anxiety renewed and hope deceived. But our will has not yielded and will not yield. We know that what we have to defend are our country and our liberties, our beliefs, our ideal of human dignity. If just and equal peace is desired of us, we are ready to make it. If peace is attacked, the weight of our arms will be felt. If some try to exhaust us by wavering between peace and war, we will hold on as long as necesary. Neither force nor ruse can accomplish anything against France."

Then we have a long and sympathetic account of the history of France from 1610 to 1914, that long period in which modern France was born and fixed her individual, perhaps unique, mentality. John G. Coulter calls his book "The Story of Modern France," and although it is an accurate and sometimes moving account of events and people, its real service lies in showing the development of the state of mind in which she stands the defender of "a frontier of liberty whose loss would be our loss as well as hers." (Bobbs-Merrill; $4.)

Finally we have the lovely face of France in a handsome little book called "The Land of France" by its two authors, Ralph Dutton and Lord Holden. This is a typical travel book, pastel jacket, frontispiece from a water color by James McNeill Whistler, dozens of photographs, serious, informative text. The text is rather better than average, and the objective quality it has is a little unusual (Scribners; $3.)—J. S.

Major With Mary Garden

Major Edward Bowes, whose Columbia network broadcast tonight will honor Mansfield, has been in the entertainment field for more than a quarter of a century and knows most of its celebrities. He is shown here with Mary Garden, opera singer and director.

GALION — A son was born Wednesday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Grogg of Smith street at the Good Samaritan hospital.

SUES FOR STATE COMPENSATION

Widow Seeks Right to Participate In Industrial Benefits.

Mrs. Anna Weisenburger, Ashland road, had filed an action today in common pleas court, seeking the right to participate in state industrial compensation for the death of Anton Weisenburger, her husband, in November, 1936.

Mrs. Weisenburger states in her action that her late husband was injured in 1935 while employed by the Tappan Stove company, making an operation necessary. He died of tetanus which developed following the operation, her petition states.

The Ohio Industrial commission, defendant in the case, rejected her claim for compensation on the grounds that death was not due to the injury.

SAFETY SCORE

HOUSTON, Tex.—(U.P.)—Houston police will dramatize fatal automobile accidents with flags. The all-white traffic safety car will carry a black flag on its radio aerial on days that the city has no fatalities and a white flag on days when such accidents occur.

MOURN ROOSTER

CAMDEN, N. J.—(U.P.)—Two hundred children held funeral services in a vacant store for Dickie, the neighborhood's pet rooster. He later was buried in his owner's back yard.

PAM— A Trying Situation By A. W. Brewerton

A MAN EMERGED FROM BEHIND THE BOOK-CASE!- IT WAS GRIGGS! - THE CABINET SWUNG BACK INTO PLACE, HUDDLED IN THE CLOSET, SCARCELY DARING TO BREATHE FOR FEAR SHE WOULD BE HEARD, PAM TREMBLED LEST THE FOOTSTEPS APPROACH HER HIDING PLACE!
9-21
OH-IF HE HEARD ME-IF HE FINDS ME NOW-I'LL NEVER BE ABLE TO LET MR. KEENE KNOW ABOUT THEIR SECRET DOOR!
BUT GRIGGS EVIDENTLY HAD NOT HEARD HER-HE SEATED HIMSELF AT HIS ORNATE DESK IN DEEP THOUGHT!
HIS EXPRESSION CHANGING SUDDENLY, HE STRODE TO THE DOOR OF THE OUTER OFFICE, AND,-- OH, MISS DIXON -- -WHY-SHE'S NOT HERE! --MUST HAVE STEPPED OUT!
SO HE CAME ON OUT INTO PAM'S OFFICE TO AWAIT HER RETURN!

Examine this table. It shows that $4.46 a month repays everything on a $100 loan in 30 months. The faster you pay, the less the total cost. These payments are calculated at Household's new reduced rates of 2% monthly on balances up to $300 and 6% yearly on balances over $300 to $500. These rates are less than legal maximum, and are the same to everyone—one price to all. Only borrowers sign—no endorsers on any loan. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives.

Paris fashion designers are working on an "air raid shelter suit." Pretty soon European women can be smart even when being bombed.

A Stanford university professor says men are smarter than women. How come? Only one woman in all history—Helen of Troy—was responsible for a war. And she, we suspect, was just a myth.

* * *

Being neutral in a war-mad Europe is just like being in a ringside seat at a wild and wooly wrestling match. You never know when the fight will land in your own lap.

ASSASSINATION BREWS CRISIS

important developments in southeastern Europe.

The shooting of Calinescu and two or more of his assistants by the pro-Nazi iron guard, as unofficially reported to the Rumanian legation in Washington, was regarded as a possible effort to touch off a general outbreak in Rumania.

If such an effort were successful against King Carol or the Rumanian government which had drastically suppressed the iron guard organization the consequences might easily involve the Nazi and Red army forces that smashed their way through Poland to the Rumanian frontier across which Polish refugees, soldiers and government leaders fled.

Calinescu had long been the key figure in King Carol's program for crushing the iron guard with repressive measures.

Germany has been reported demanding that the Rumanian government interne President Ignacy Moscicki and Gen. Edward Smigly-Rydz of Poland for the duration of the war, instead of permitting them to go as the Rumanians desired to France and set up a Polish government headquarters.

Although Adolf Hitler this week declared in his Danzig speech that Europe would be pleased by his limited ambitions, there had been persistent reports that Germany was seeking to dominate Rumania economically—especially to gain Rumanian oil for the Nazi war machine. There had also been fears in Rumania that Soviet Russia, pushing southwestward through Poland, had designs on the Bessarabian territory that she lost to Rumania after the World war.

The possibility of such developments in the southeast overshadowed for the moment even the shifting of millions of soldiers on the Western front in preparation for the fight to a finish between Germany and the allied powers.

France completed 20 days of general mobilization with 6,000,000 of the world's best-trained men under arms and pushing their way slowly into German territory against local counter attacks and heavy artillery fire.

Germany shifts large numbers of troops, airplanes and war materials from the vanquished Polish front, where about 1,000,000 Nazis were in action, toward the Rhineland frontier facing France.

Great Britain, steadily pouring troops, artillery and airplanes into France, was believed to have captured or destroyed about one-fifth of the Nazi submarine fleet so far sent out to the high seas and it was believed British destroyers may have attacked more U-boats yesterday in the Kattegat straits off Denmark.

GUNS FOR U. S.

300 New Mobile Weapons to Attack Enemy Planes Ready.

WASHINGTON—(AP)— About 300 new mobile anti-aircraft guns for which congress provided $23,685,000 are ready to safeguard American cities and vital military posts.

A year after work was started, officials said today that nearly all the rapid-fire three-inch weapons had been tested, put in service or added to army reserves.

ANCHOR KILLS HUGE SUNFISH

CHESTER, Pa.— (U.P.) —Arnold W. Jones, local fisherman, not only helped catch a 30-pound sunfish in lower Delaware river, but did it with an anchor.

While crabbing off a dory, Jones and his two companions, James McCormack, Richardson Park, Del., and Wilson Baker, Georgetown, Del., spotted the huge fish swimming in the water.

They worked their boat near the fish and dropped a 20-pound anchor on it. The fish, almost circular, was four feet nine inches at the longest part.

A Letter Addressed to You

Dear Doctor:

We know (as do all of the members of your profession) that you wish at times, that the telephone could be thrown into the ash can—so that you could have a day of rest—one—all your own—so that you would not be—at the beck and call—of all your patients and prospective patients.

However—you also know that many a pain is assuaged—by that all important ANSWER that only YOU can give—in person—or over the telephone—

So—you'll be less tired—if you will install extension telephones—of the cradle type within easy reach—no matter where you are.

Sincerely Yours,

Your Telephone Company.

5 Out of 6 Here Back Arms Embargo, Favor 'Strict' Neutrality

News-Journal Poll Shows Big Majority Of Mansfielders 'Isolationists;' See Cash-and-Carry As Threat.

Eighty-five per cent of Mansfield residents are in favor of retaining the present neutrality law, which places an embargo on the sale and shipment of arms and munitions to countries at war, if a News-Journal poll today can be used as an index.

From a group of Mansfielders, chosen at random by members of The News-Journal staff, only one in six was in favor of repealing the present neutrality act to permit the cash-and-carry sale of munitions and fighting equipment to European belligerents, while five of six were definitely for the present "isolation" bill.

All of them, of course, were for following the program that seemed to them most likely to keep us out of war. Only one accepted the war as inevitable, regardless of our foreign policy

Fear Credit Again.

Most of those in favor of the present bill and opposed to the president's cash-and-carry plan were of the opinion that the latter was a fallacy which would soon become one of credit-and-carry, thus involving again large sums of American money. One or two expressed the belief that we should aid Great Britain and France because of the similarity of our governmental plans

Following are some Mansfield opinions on the problem which will be decided by congress within the next few weeks:

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of county commissioners—I'm in favor of the cash-and-carry plan of sale to European nations. That may be one way of getting back some of the money they still owe us from the last war. There's no reason why we should become involved if we make the purchasing nations send their own ships after the goods.

Lester Young, department store clerk—If we mix into European affairs, we are certain to get into the war. Let them solve their own troubles and leave us alone. I favor keeping hands off and not selling them anything.

* * *

Ned Brooks, bank employe—My opinion is that we should have nothing to do with Europe in any way until the war is over. The embargo on arms to belligerents is a protection to us and we should keep it.

* * *

Mrs. R. D. Campbell, 191 Helen avenue, housewife—I am in favor of maintaining the neutrality law with its embargo on arms because I feel it is a protection to us—the United States in times of war.

* * *

Robert M. Miller, assistant secretary-manager of C. of C.—I favor strict adherence to the present neutrality law because I feel that remaining faithful to its tenets, especially the embargo on arms, is the only thing which will keep the United States out of the present war or future wars.

* * *

Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor St Paul Lutheran church—I believe the best way to maintain neutrality is to retain the present neutrality law. If the law is amended, the cash available for war materials will soon run out and we will see friends of Germany trying to stop the shipment of materials and that would start a difficult situation in the United States.

* * *

F. M. Frizell, Y. M. C. A. custodian—It doesn't make any difference as far as I can see. If we supply England and France with arms we will have the enmity of Germany. If we do not repeal the present neutrality law to adopt the cash-and-carry purchase of war materials there is a grave danger of Germany winning the war not only because of her own military power but because of the inability of other Euorpean nations siding with her against England and France.

George Keil, department manager, H. L. Reed company—As far as I can see it I think the present neutrality law should not be amended. The United States should stay out of the European war and think about things here.

* * *

R. A. Dunn, 158 Vennum avenue, bus driver—Leave the neutrality law as it is. Selling to England and France will get Germany's back up and lead us into trouble. I don't favor the cash-and-carry plan or any other that will involve us.

* * *

O. M. Leathers, R. D. 4, engineer—I think we should keep our hands off European affairs. The best way to stay out of trouble is to leave the neutrality law alone and attend to our own affairs.

* * *

Dr. William R. Riester, Russell road—I'm certainly for retaining the present neutrality law, because I'm convinced that the cash-and-carry plan will inevitably get us into the European picture. You can't eat your cake and have it, and we either stay out of the situation 100 per cent, or we go into it knowing the consequences. Neither Great Britain or France have the cash to finance a war over a period of years, and when it becomes credit-and-carry we are right back where we started in 1917.

George W. Biddle, Mansfield attorney—Improve the present act by placing an embargo on all war contraband as well as arms and munitions; use American wealth here to take care of our own people; by all means have the cash-and-carry plan for all other commerce which might endanger peace; let Europe fight if she will, but America must not burn her fingers again. And at least we can all hope.

* * *

Roy W. Vaughn, electrical salesman, 139 Prospect street—I am for the strictest kind of neutrality, with no compromise such as the cash-and-carry plan. I think the present neutrality law, forbidding the sale of arms and munitions to European nations at war, is the only sure way to keep us out of war. A cash-and-carry plan is a fallacy anyway—in a year or two we will again be "carrying it on the cuff"

* * *

Philip Wappner, mortician, South Diamond street—I believe that the present neutrality act is the only way we can keep out of the European conflict and that any change in it is playing with fire. The less we have to do with the war the less likely we are to become involved in it

* * *

Wilbur Hegnauer, salesman at Charles Ritter company—I am for amending the present neutrality bill to include a cash-and-carry provision. Nothing we can do will keep us out of the war, and so long as it is inevitable, we might just as well do what we can for the allies in the beginning. I don't think the cash-and-carry plan will affect the situation one way or the other, so far as our involvement is concerned.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager, Chamber of Commerce—We become a party to war as soon as we sell war materials whether on a cash and carry basis or otherwise to any foreign belligerents Strict neutrality should be observed by this country and then we do not place any country at a disadvantage

* * *

Marion D. Ward, jr., city solicitor—Maintaining the present neutrality law is the safest insurance against our becoming engaged in another war. There is no cash-and-carry system as far as foreign trade is concerned. Warring nations only borrow from American banks to make their purchases and when they have reached their credit limitations then the United States must go to war to protect its interests There should be no repeal of the arms embargo.

William J. Beer, jr. council clerk—The present neutrality act should be maintained at all costs. Selling war materials to any country engaged in war will only jeopardize American democracy the moment we begin that practice.

* * *

Mrs. A. J. McHugh, housewife, 36 Henry avenue—From a personal standpoint I regard the present neutrality law, or any other isolationist policy, which will keep us out of war as the best. I am an isolationist myself because I don't want to see any young men in the trenches

* * *

Mrs. Marie Porterfield, music teacher, West Fourth street—Although it is rather difficult to answer such questions, and although I have barred my ears, eyes and mind to talk of war, I feel that either way we are destined to get into war. I would favor maintaining the present United States neutrality law with its embargo on arms only if it guaranteed that we would remain out of war.

Olan LeRue, superintendent Madison township schools—I believe that we should leave the present neutrality law as it is Our country will probably lose a lot of trade by not amending the law but I think we will benefit by it in the end We should do everything possible to keep this country out of the war.

Philip Smith, electrician, 54 Home avenue—I'm not in favor of changing the present neutrality law. If it is changed to a cash-and-carry basis, at first it will be cash-and-carry, then credit, and then this country will become involved in the war

* * *

Mrs. E. M. Olin, housewife, Brinkerhoff avenue—I favor the present neutrality law with its embargo on arms because eventually we have to solve our difficulty outside of warfare. As long as manufacturers keep on providing war materials, nations will keep on fighting. The best thing to do is take all arms out and dump them

Ralph Hughes—clerk of Municipal court — the arms embargo should be repealed and the purchase of war materials placed on a cash-and-carry system. This would be far cheaper for the United States than going to Europe to protect the democracies which we owe a moral obligation in the face of the present conflict.

Joseph Scanlon, steel worker, President of Delano lodge—The arms embargo should be repealed to permit any nation to buy on a cash-and-carry basis. It appears that that would be the lesser of two evils by protecting our own merchant marine now transporting war materials and avoid economic strife in the United States. Lifting the embargo would allow all belligerents to be benefited on the same basis even though they would have to depend upon their naval strength under such a plan.

* * *

Miss Florence Nail, 1025 Park avenue west, clerk—I am in favor of retaining the present neutrality law, because I believe it offers a better chance for keeping us out of war than the revision does.

* * *

Mrs. Charles Sullens, 28 Parkwood boulevard, housewife—I am in favor of the present neutrality law because its chances of keeping us out of the war seem more promising than do those of the amendment And I certainly am not in favor of anything that could possibly get the United States into another world war.

Miss Mary Eggert, 91 Rowland avenue, milliner—Let's keep the present neutrality law and stay out of Europe's war. I can see no need to sacrifice our youth again as we did in 1917 for another apparently 'lost cause.'

* * *

Mrs. Mary K. Kerr, 252 Park avenue west, clerk—I am in favor of keeping the present neutrality law as it now is. Too many undesirable entanglements are likely to arise from the loopholes in the proposed amendments.

* * *

Mrs. Jack McKnight, 146 Poplar street, housewife—I am in favor of keeping the neutrality law as it is now, because I believe it will do more for keeping us out of war than anything else.

TAKES STEPS TO PUT T. B. PLAN INTO OPERATION

County Advisory Board to Map Program Starting in 1940 at Meeting Friday.

The county will take the first step Friday to put its new anti-tuberculosis program in operation when the advisory board named by the commissioners meets at the courthouse to set up plans for 1940.

Headed by Dr. John S. Hattery of Mansfield, the board is expected to name a physician to handle county T. B. cases and to map a program of treatment and prevention which will be financed from a half-mill tax levy voted last year.

Dr. Lincoln Fisher, Mansfield specialist in chest diseases, has been recommended for county physician for tuberculosis cases by the Richland County Medical society, and the advisory board is expected to act on the recommendation tomorrow

The doctor named to the post by the board will receive a salary from the T.B fund for treating patients in their own homes or in convalescent homes He will also conduct chest clinics for indigents.

Provides Convalescent Home.

The program calls for the establishing of a convalescent home for treatment of county patients, making it unnecessary to send them to hospitals and homes in other sections of the state

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the county commissioners, said steps will be taken later to purchase a building in or near Mansfield for the convalescent home.

The half-mill tax levy to finance the program will be collected for the first time in 1940, providing approximately $45,000 a year for the anti-T.B. campaign.

Mitchell said the county will seek a loan against the levy this fall in order to pay bills at state hospitals for the treatment of Richland county cases. When the county's T.B fund was exhausted several weeks ago, the hospitals agreed to wait until the new program is in operation for payment of the bills

Members of the advisory board, which is scheduled to meet at 10 a. m, tomorrow are Dr. Hattery, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city - county health commissioner; Mrs. H H Schettler, Mansfield; Mrs. H C Brokaw, Shelby; George Mentzer, Lexington, and John Swisher, of near Mansfield

Autos Add To Woes Of Asthma Victims, Physicians Told

The passing of the horse and buggy era increased the troubles of the asthma and hay fever sufferer because the modern automobile takes him in less time to more places where he comes in contact with irritants, Dr Jonathan Forman, Columbus, told 110 physicians at the Mansfield-Leland hotel last night.

Speaking at the first of a series of post-graduate lectures sponsored by the Ohio State Medical association, Dr. Forman said the successful treatment of asthma and hay fever victims depends on how well the sufferer can be isolated from the cause of his ailment and how persistent he is in treatment.

The other speaker on the opening program was Dr. Harold N Cole, Cleveland, who lectured on the treatment of social diseases.

Last night's session was opened by Dr. Robert Allison, Akron, member of the regional committee on education of the Ohio Medical society which is sponsoring the lectures. Dr. C R Damron of Mansfield presided Charles Nelson, Columbus, state secretary of the medical society, was a guest.

JOIN IN PARADE

Knights Templar, Band March at Cleveland Conclave.

Thirty-four Knights Templar and a band of 38-pieces represented Mansfield Commandery No. 21 at sessions of the 97th annual Conclave of the Grand Commandery of Ohio yesterday in Cleveland.

The Mansfield delegation took part in the conclave parade that took about two hours to pass in review on Euclid avenue.

Opening Tuesday, the conclave closed this morning with an election and installation of officers at Masonic temple. Edward L Becker, emminent commander, headed the Mansfield delegation to Cleveland

Toledo was chosen as the 1940 convention city.

INJURED IN COLLISION

George Washington Scott, 50, R. D. 4, suffered shoulder and neck injuries when his car was struck by a truck driven by Eldon Rychener, 25, Pettisville, O., at 1 p. m Wednesday on U S. route 30-N at the intersection of route 314.

the air arm Instead, troops are widely spread everywhere.

One can go hundreds of square miles never ceasing to see units of armies all finely integrated, equipped with wireless and with both motor and horse transportation.

This organization is so completely carried out now that it would be an utter impossibility for Hitler to employ his "blitzkrieg"—which is primarily aimed at prevention of mobilization.

Even if Goering could send his air fleets over unopposed, he could not effect great military damage now

I noted that camouflage has been developed with the greatest art I virtually ran smack into airplanes in fields before seeing them so cleverly disguised they had been It was an interesting game to try to locate planes in the fields as we drove through the countryside en route to the front line zone

Everywhere I found grim resolution to go through with the task to the bitter end A lieutenant colonel of the Deuxieme bureau (the intelligence service, identical with our GH-2) said:

"The troops are the best I have ever seen They are fighting with intelligence as well as deadliness.

"Theirs is a much healthier mental attitude than the 1914 'on to Berlin' nonsense. They know what it means this time.

"They're angry.

"And they mean business."

I am unable to confirm reports that gas was released from the German mines in captured areas.

Tells 'Wrong', 'Right' Way.

The illustrations showed the right and wrong way to kill, much the same as our safety councils in America illustrate the right and wrong way to drive a car. These illustrations were labelled "richtig" (right) and "falsch" (wrong)

Officers and men everywhere confirmed that German prisoners captured during the first days were completely bewildered, however, hardly knowing that war existed or what they were fighting about

A captain at one frontier point told how on the second day of fighting, a detachment of German cavalry came trotting up to French advance positions in captured territory and was virtually wiped out by French machine-guns.

The few captured survivors were speechless with astonishment They did not know that war was on.

There was another story told by a French colonel that threw some light upon what this war is going to be like When a French plane was brought down three days ago, the German pilot machine-gunned the French pilot as he descended in a parachute, seriously wounding him

Thus it is possible that even the aerial chivalry observed for a while in the World war will disappear in the frightfulness of the new "Guerre Totale."

PRESIDENT ASKS CONGRESS FOR EMBARGO REPEAL

Says Return to International Law Will Be Best Way to Keep Out of War.

tional law . . . is better calculated than any other means to keep us out of war."

The president advised congress that he had sufficient authority in his opinion to handle various other problems arising from the European war and said as a result he could "see no valid reason for the consideration of other legislation" than arms embargo repeal at the special session.

Will Keep Congress Advised.

He promised to keep the leaders of the two major parties in congress fully advised of any and every development following close of the special session, and added:

"Further, in the event of any future danger to the security of the United States or in the event of need for any new legislation of importance, I will immediately reconvene the congress in another extraordinary session."

SHOWS MOVIES OF AIR LINER

Representative of Transport Firm Speaks At Kiwanis Meeting.

Kiwanis club interest in aviation was stimulated further today when a transport flight was presented in sound pictures by Frank McCabe of Cleveland, representative of American Air Lines.

A typical flight from Chicago to New York was shown, with air views of cities and points of interest en route as well as views portraying American Air Line facilities at airport stops.

Thomas J. Harris, Chicago, accompanied McCabe here for the meeting which was held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Atty. Herbert Schettler was program chairman.

DIES IN TOLEDO

Body of Miss Amelia Matthes to Be Returned for Burial.

Miss Amelia Matthes, a former resident of Mansfield, died in Toledo today after a lingering illness. She was a member of the St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Surviving are three brothers, J. C. Matthes of Mansfield, Louis Matthes of Fresno, Calif., and Herman Matthes of Toledo, and a sister, Mrs. Edward Wirth of Buffalo, N. Y.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 4 p. m. Saturday with Rev. Herman L. Gilbert of the St. Paul's Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

PAINT STATUE 'FREEDOM'

WASHINGTON —(INS)— "Freedom," the heroic 19-foot statue atop the dome of the capitol, was being repaired today as the 76th congress met in extraordinary session in the midst of the new European war.

Lester D. Perry of Mansfield and Harvey Ulmer of Bucyrus are delegates of the central Ohio Legion of the Moose. Other Mansfielders attending the convention are Earl A. McFarland, district president, and Ira Ohler.

SEES HASTE TO FIGHT AN ERROR

France and England.

Curiously enough, despite the fact that the sprig of peace-on-my-terms olive Hitler held out from Danzig was tossed back at him by the Allies, Berlin still persists with peace propaganda.

Yesterday there was another striking gesture of friendship towards France in a military funeral to French Lieut. Louis Deschanel who was killed in action. And the Berlin Allgemeine Zeitung said:

"Germany has reached her war objective. The west does not interest us. Of course, should someone attack us there we would defend ourselves as effectively as possible."

"Why must this war go on?" cried the Boersen Zeitung.

Evidently German hope of peace on their own terms isn't entirely dead. But the moment it becomes certain that the war must continue—look out for fireworks.

Once the gloves are off it will be a nasty war. The horrors of modern air raids—the world's awful nightmare—are in the offing.

British Premier Chamberlain nailed the imperial standard to the mast yesterday when he laid down England's war aims before his house of commons.

"Our general purpose in this struggle is well known," he said. "It is to redeem Europe from the perpetual and recurring fear of German aggression and enable the peoples of Europe to preserve their independence and their liberties."

That's plain language and it covers more ground than a man would want to plow in a day. But it is a long way from telling the entire story.

It becomes increasingly clear that the British Empire has been put on the spot.

Not only is Britain Herr Hitler's chief target, but it is being potted at by other countries as well. France, of course, is sharing England's trials, but the prize scalp sought is John Bull's.

The main engagement is to determine whether Hitler shall continue to extend his influence until Nazi Germany is the dominant power, or whether England shall retain the politico-economic superiority which has given that nation, among other things, the title of "policeman of Europe."

RUSSIAN ARMY DRIVEN BACK, POLES CLAIM

shells could be heard through its microphone.

The announcer had carried on far into the night despite the deep, periodic rumblings until the station suddenly went off the air halfway through the playing of a Polish military air.

Temporarily, at least, the only communication between the German-besieged Polish capital and the rest of the world was ended.

Silence came after the station had broadcast a grim story of Warsaw being shelled and bombed as never before and predicted "there probably soon will be a big offensive against us."

The rest of Europe, which had been following the 14-day fight of Warsaw's defenders through almost ceaseless broadcasts from the station, was left to speculate on what might have happened.

The studio is in the center of Warsaw. Despite German aerial and artillery bombardment of that area for almost two weeks, the station had remained on the air day and night. It had gone on even while shells were falling around it.

Four times yesterday the warning wail of air raid sirens could be heard above the calm voice of the announcer and four times the drone of diving airplanes came over the air.

The broadcaster said the raids were conducted by squadrons of 30 German planes.

Warsaw butchers were notified to go to military headquarters to receive allotments of horse meat. The announcer said wounded horses would be butchered for the "near-starving million inhabitants" of the city.

Several times the announcer referred to President Ignace Moscicki of Poland and other members of the government as though they still were in the country and said Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz' presence at the front "cheered our soldiers" although Smigly-Rydz has been in Rumania several days.

Rumanian Decree Terrifies Jews.

BUCHAREST, RUMANIA—(U.P.)—Thousands of Jewish refugees from Poland were terrified today by a Rumanian government's order that "all undesirable aliens" must leave the country within 15 days.

Many of the tens of thousands of Polish refugees streaming southward from the border were Jews. Many of them had been on the move since Germany began expanding eastward and southward, through Austria and Czechoslovakia. They had been permitted to cross freely into Rumania the past few days during the great crush of refugee Polish soldiers, civilians and diplomats at the frontier. Now they were to be shunted off again and few had the means to proceed to a friendly country.

The Rumanian order did not specify Jews, and authorities said it included "undesirable" Christians as well, but there was no doubt that Jews would be most affected. A government spokesman said if the measure had specified Jews it would have invited protests from countries, including the United States, where the Jewish population is not restricted.

National Public Health Official Makes Inspection Here.

Miss Virginia Jones of New York, assistant director of the National Organization for Public Health Nursing, in Mansfield today for an inspection visit, was guest at a luncheon meeting this noon of the executive board of the Visiting Nurses' association at the Woman's Club.

This afternoon, Miss Jones, an advisory consultant in public health nursing, was to talk to visiting nurses and the public health staff at the health department in the city building.

NAZI FLIER SHOT

PARIS —(U.P.)— Captain Baron Von Richtofen, son of Baron Manfred Von Richtofen, most famous German world war ace, has been shot down and killed in an air battle, the newspaper Parios Soir reported in a dispatch from Zurich, Switzerland, today.

Zurich dispatches to the newspaper said that a German newspaper at Leipzig published an obituary of Captain Baron Von Richtofen, who was 29.

SCORES 'FINAL' COUNTY OFFER ON GRADE PLAN

Lincoln Highway Official Says Pledge 'Ridiculous,' Hits Lack of Enthusiasm.

The Richland county commissioners "final" offer of $20,000 towards a proposed $600,000 grade separation project on West Fourth street road was called "ridiculous" today by F. R. Hopley of Bucyrus, state counsel for the Lincoln Highway association.

Asserting that the county "will never have another opportunity to get a $500,000 gift from the government," Hopley criticized the commissioners for their failure "to get together with the state."

Hopley scored the commissioners for not going to Columbus to confer with state highway officials who had requested a $100,000 contribution and then later reduced the figure to $60,000.

"It isn't a project that calls for the immediate expenditure of funds and even if the county pledged itself for a higher figure than $20,000, it would be met from state tax money after 1940," he added.

Says Only Pledge Needed.

"All that was asked was that the county pledge to go along on the program in order that the state could get plans worked out for the construction within the next few years."

Hopley pointed out that the commissioners had not contributed "one cent" towards a grade separation project now under construction near Crestline in Richland county while the railroad and Crestline had participated in the program.

He said that the county now had the opportunity to share in the cost with the railroad on a 85-15 basis with the county bearing the smaller portion while after the first of next year, under a new law recently passed, contributions would figure on a 50-50 basis.

The proposal calls for the construction of an overpass at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at the West Fourth street city limits and an underpass at the Erie raidroad a mile further west.

The state has considered both projects in one in order to effect a $100,000 savings in excavation.

MARRIAGES SLUMP

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(U.P.)—As a result of California's "gin-marriage" law which requires a three-day declaration of intention to wed, before a license can be issued, one-fourth of California marriages are being performed in nearby states. The favorite Gretna Greens are Mexico, Nevada and Arizona.

FEEDS DOVES

BELFAST, Me.—(U.P.)—What's in a name? Dr. Hazel V. Bird daily feeds about 300 doves. Last year her grain bill totaled about $75. She also tends sick and injured doves and other birds brought to her by neighbors.

SHOWS PROFIT

Liberty Park Pool Clears $140 in Second Full Season.

Liberty park swimming pool in its second full year of operation showed an operating profit of $140, a financial report submitted by Pool Manager Russell Von Weider showed today.

During the three months of operation, Von Weider reported receipts at $1,592 as compared with expenditures of $1,452. In 1938, the pool operated at a $200 loss, expenditures totalling $1,898 as compared with an income of $1,688.

Von Weider said that due to cooler temperatures during the past season, paid admissions dropped to 11,496 as compared with 12,723 last year.

The report showed that 8,548 children attended the free swimming periods while 359 adults attended classes in swimming instructions.

FLUSH KIDNEYS OF EXCESS ACID AND POISONS--GAIN IN HEALTH

Stop Getting Up Nights—Be Happier—Live Longer

35 CENTS PROVES IT

That dragged out feeling may mean that your kidneys are inactive and distressed—persistent backache, nervousness and dizzy spells may mean the same thing.

Good active kidneys relieving the body of excess acid and poisons are what we all should strive to attain and when kidneys and bladder are distressed—

A good safe effective diuretic such as GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules is called for—so if you have to get up often at night—if passage is scanty or difficult and smarting or burning is in evidence—if you have shifting pains or leg twinges or puffy eyes it may help your health if you pay attention to your kidneys.

GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules is a grand diuretic—for scores of years it has been used by people all over America and in other countries—it can't harm you.

In every GOLD MEDAL Capsule you get the genuine—the pure—the original Haarlem Oil right from Haarlem in Holland. So don't be an EASY MARK and accept a substitute—Look for the Gold Medal on the box. 35 cents.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1939

"More Money Into Lake" headlines the Kansas City Star about a WPA project—and that seems to tell the story.

"Truth is the first casualty of war," says General Hugh Johnson—but it also has tough going in peace time as well.

Detroit's newly elected Miss America aspires to rear a family of five children and also wants a job—naively imagining that the one does not insure the other.

Nation Again Hears of Mansfield

WHATEVER serves to bring Mansfield into favorable prominence outside of its own north-central Ohio vicinity has both direct and indirect value.

Closely following recent nation-wide comment on Mansfield, the home city of Louis Bromfield, in connection with the world premiere of "The Rains Came," the name of Mansfield will again be carried afar tonight as the "honor city" on Major Bowes' amateur hour radio program from 8 to 9 o'clock.

Publicized at various times through the past half century as "the trunk line city"; "the city of churches"; "the city of blue ribbon children"; "the home of John Sherman"; "the typical American city," and other designations befitting the time and occasion, Mansfield has been fortunate in the diversification of its attractions and in its slow but steady and substantial growth.

From a small county seat town of fifty years ago, with emphasis on agriculture, and the rich land which gave the county its name, Mansfield has since developed into an important industrial center, with high quality products of large and small local industries flowing out into every state and many countries.

With present population above 40,000, and making ready for the 50,000 confidently anticipated for the not far away future, Mansfield welcomes the recognition it has previously received, and that being accorded on this occasion.

To those who are newcomers in Mansfield, and those who may sometime arrive as strangers, it may be said that many thousands of people who came here as strangers have found a warmth of welcome and a quick adjustment into community activities which have given them a very favorable impression of this city and its people.

Like children playing with blocks, war can quickly knock down what it took a long time to build up.

'As the Twig Is Bent'

READERS who either commended or adversely criticised a recent editorial comment on misconduct of a group of high school students in downtown Mansfield last Thursday night will be interested in Elsie Robinson's "Listen World" article along somewhat similar lines, which will be found elsewhere on this page.

Any criticism of the behavior of young people, and reference to lax parental discipline, should be recognized as a sincere attempt to bring these matters to public notice, so that steps may be taken toward self-improvement or better home training.

Having in mind instances in which some parents have later been required to suffer the pitiful experience of visiting a child in the reformatory or state penitentiary, or even to undergo the torture of awaiting a son's execution, it would appear that nothing should be left unsaid in an effort to prevent early steps toward such a possible culmination.

There is a great difference between the innocent mischievousness of exuberant childhood and the destructiveness of youthful vandals. Recognition of this line of demarcation is largely a matter of training from infancy.

It was the Joplin (Mo.) Globe that thought to remark: "This is the age of multiple births, third terms and double Thanksgivings."

Continue as Friendly Neighbors

WHEN Canada declared war on Germany in its own name, many Americans became anxious about travel there. The situation was promptly cleared up by officials of both countries.

Canadian passenger ships on the Great Lakes are operating normally, continuing the September cruises as scheduled. The state department at Washington ruled that the embargo upon passenger steamship traffic does not apply to the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence river.

The Canadian director of immigration at Ottawa announced that American tourists visiting Canada or intending to do so "continue to be welcome, and no restrictions of any kind have been imposed or are likely to be imposed on such visitors."

The good feeling between Canada and the United States is sincere. Their mutual disposition to peace and co-operation is genuine.

Just as it was back 25 years ago, some people are wondering what newspapers "will find to print" after the war ends.

Auto-Show Democracy

THE SHOW COMMITTEE of the Automobile Manufacturers association has announced that admission to the National Automobile Show which is opening in New York City October 15 will be only 10 cents. It has usually been 50 to 75 cents.

The fee is cut in order to attract more customers. Officials give a further explanation. The lower price recognizes the fact that in the four decades since the show was established the automobile has come to be an essential part of the lives of people in all walks of life. It is reasonable, therefore, to charge a price which people in more walks of life can manage to pay.

In the midst of so many other things, it has been almost forgotten that 1940 is also a leap year—if some of the oldsters will explain to modern youth just what that means.

Oil Conservation Needed

OIL PRODUCTION in Illinois has increased [illegible] sevenfold in a year. It [illegible] says the Chicago Daily News, for state regulations to prevent disastrous waste.

Americans have begun to practice conservation in other lines, trying to stop soil erosion, forest destruction, and so on. Oil, one of the nation's most valuable resources, needs such measures now, not to curtail its legitimate and expanding use, but to end wasteful production abuses.

GRAPES OF WRATH

Listen, World!

Needed—Public Spanking Posts.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE'S a story going the newspaper rounds. It seems that a certain distinguished American was dining alone in one of New York's famous night spots. Presently a waiter laid a sealed envelope before him, then discreetly withdrew. Curiously, the gentleman opened the envelope, to find a card which read—

The management requests your quiet and immediate departure."

The indignant gentleman naturally started to protest, then realizing that a public scene could only cause further humiliation, he swallowed his resentment and withdrew. Presently another diner of equal refinement received a similar envelope and, though obviously furious, obeyed its request.

And, in due time, still another gentleman—and another—took his outraged departure, none of them noticing the increasingly hilarious guffaws of a group of young people who were applauding the success of their latest practical joke which had, for several nights in succession, victimized guests in various cafes, not to mention the loss and humiliation to their bewildered hosts.

Comical? Maybe. That depends on your point of view. Usually, I'm a pushover for Young America. Carping critics to the contrary, I think this current crop of Young Yanks is as fine a job as the old shop has ever turned out—brave, decent and thoroughly sound.

Moreover, I can grin as gaily as the next one at most adolescent antics, and even give thanks that Kids can still be Kids, in this depraved world we've handed on to them. But I fail to find anything Screamingly Funny in this, or other recent examples of Juvenile Jinks.

There was, for instance, that gag recently perpetrated by a prominent young socialite and his pal. Having become beautifully bunned on bottled goods, these scintillating wags set forth in a high-powered car and proceeded to hang up an all-time record for general hooliganism. Before the police finally managed to cramp their style, they had smashed up a considerable percentage of Uncle Sam's population . . . bashed a lot of expensive scenery . . . executed a highly successful hold-up . . . and left a trail of wreckage and misery that made A. Capone and his little playmates look like pikers.

Emerging from his hangover the next morning, the petulant young prankster demanded to know what was "coming off here" and, on being told, patted a bored yawn into place and wondered, audibly, "Why did I do that when I gotta 'nuff cash to buy this whole joint!"

He didn't know why he did it. But any mature citizen with the sense God gave a wood tick could have told him. He did it because he was a spoiled young brat, with no more regard for human rights than a wart hog—and far less manners. Which goes for the other pranksters likewise, and all their conceited, cantankerous kind.

But why—you may wonder—should such highly privileged young moderns perform such pranks? Easy Answer No. 7,839,472. They perform 'em because SOMEBODY SOLDIERED ON HIS JOB. Meaning, in all probability, a Dad who was too busy earning money to perform his simple duties as a father . . . and a pin-head Mother who was so absorbed in bridge, booze and beauty treatments that she couldn't be bothered to guide her own get. They, rather than their nitwit offspring, are responsible for putting the MOCK in DEMOCRACY.

Wherefore I propose the immediate installation of a long-needed civic service—namely: A "BOTTOMS UP" PROGRAM FOR DELINQUENT PARENTS and PUBLIC SPANKING POSTS FOR ADMINISTERING THE SAME:

After which—but not until then—we can turn our attentions to Junior and Sis.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, Sept. 21, 1919.

Mansfield reformatory was chosen as headquarters for central state bureau of criminal identification.

Reduction in number of coroner's cases was attributed to advent of prohibition.

Temperature "above the eighty mark" caused considerable discomfort.

Frederick E. Long, 75, Civil war veteran, died at his home, 175 East Fourth street.

John Weil went to Toledo to attend state Masonic meeting.

Rev. Sager Tryon was returned to pastorate of First United Brethren church.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Sept. 21, 1934.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Gurney, 514 West Fourth street, became the bride of Kenneth E. Stutzman at St. Peter's parsonage.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Smaltz, 105 Fifth avenue, at Thomas hospital.

Charles C. Nash, 89, died at his home, 138 West Third street.

Health And Diet

Lemon Juice For Indigestion.

—By DR. CLENDENING

WE HAVE discussed the form of indigestion where there is too much secretion in the stomach, especially too much hydrochloric acid; this is the acid form of indigestion.

There is another form where the stomach secretion is greatly reduced or absent. This may or may not cause digestive distress. It is more likely to cause ill health in other organs, especially anemia.

As age advances the chances of the stomach secretion drying up increase. In examining 5,000 people it was found that five per cent between 20 and 30 years had low stomach acid, while 35 per cent over 60 had it.

Other Conditions.

Vague stomach distress, headaches, joint pains (arthritis), fatigue and general unfitness for work are likely to accompany the condition. As to fitness, when a group of people in vague failing health were examined, 50 to 60 per cent, corresponding to the degree of unfitness, were found to have lowered stomach secretion.

In treatment an easily-digested diet should be planned.

The substitution of hydrochloric acid in the form of a regular ingredient at meal time should theoretically help, but it is of little practical value.

A remedy not sufficiently known but highly praised by Dr. Bethea, of New Orleans, is lemon juice. A glass—one to two ounces—of lemon or grapefruit juice unsweetened is sipped during the latter half of each meal.

What the lemon juice does is speculative. A physiologist says:

"At the present time the only suggestion I can make is that lemon juice in some way, reflexly or through the intervention of the hormone gastrin, stimulates the patietal cells to secrete a larger amount of gastric juice so that the acidity of the gastric contents becomes greater."

Gave Them Relief.

A practicing physician says: "I have had patients tell me that they have been relieved of their symptoms, largely a vague stomach distress or a diarrhea that I looked upon as of stomach origin, by the use of lemon juice diluted in one of the various ways. I sometimes wonder whether or not the addition of vitamin C in the treatment of these cases, particularly if they have a chronic gastric basis, is not even more important than the use of hydrochloric acid."

A Boston doctor writes: "I also use lemon juice in hypochlorhydria, particularly in older people, and have told the students about it for many years."

Certainly, in the face of such evidence, lemon juice should be given wider use.

Timely Editorial

Uniform Traffic Laws.

A uniform traffic law, for all Ohio, governing both vehicles and pedestrians, is asked by the legislative committee of the Ohio traffic council which recently was named by Governor Bricker. There is ample reason for such a legislative step as this.

Furthermore, we hope to see the day come soon when, so far as it is possible, the same traffic laws will prevail in all the states. If regulations were universally uniform, it would save much embarrassment and doubtless reduce accidents.—Ohio State Journal.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I have never been to Hollywood, and so my information is purely second-hand. But during the first week of the war an author whose book is now being made into a picture spent five days there "on story consultation," and this is what he had to say of the experience.

"I arrived in Hollywood the day Germany invaded Poland, thirsting for news. Although I spent five days there, not once did I hear a radio. I talked with friends who used to live in the east, I talked with producers, directors, hotel managers, restaurant proprietors, and bell boys. The only subject mentioned in all these conversations was pictures.

"If they have heard that there is a war, they do not believe it. They won't believe it unless they think it will make a good movie. This is not true of the book-keepers, of course, for their figures tell them that war will close out their foreign fields, but the actors and the middle men and the agents and the everyone elses—the only possible thing you can hope to talk about or discuss with them is—pictures.

"THE producer who is making my novel into a picture telephoned my hotel as soon as I arrived. 'I will send my car right over for you,' he said. 'No,' I replied, 'you're ony two blocks from the hotel. I'll walk over.'

"He was horrified. 'You can't do that,' he cried, 'you can't WALK in Hollywood. My car will be right over.'

"I told him I first had to look up a cousin of mine, whom I hadn't seen in 15 years, and he promised to send his car for me there, though the restaurant where my cousin worked was only ONE block from this producer's office.

"Forty-five minutes later, while talking with my cousin and eating a very indifferent steak, a chauffeur ducked in, blinked in amazement, became a little disdainful, and asked my cousin if anyone by my name was there. I was the only man in the place. So my cousin yelled out, "Is Joe Doaks Here?"

"'Yes,' I said. Then I said to the chauffeur, 'I'm not ready yet, sit down and have a glass of beer.'

"He was dumbfounded. 'Oh, No, Sir. I couldn't do that. I simply couldn't do that.'

"'Then wait in the car,' I told him. 'I'll be along presently.'

"AFTER wiping the gravy off my cheeks I went out and climbed into an elaborate limousine and was driven, very smartly, about 150 feet to the office of my producer.

"What followed was an amazing experience, for me. Eight writers were called in. The producer, the director, the in-betweens took their places around a great table. Then the producer began to speak. But the moment he opened his mouth the telephone rang, and he talked for 15 minutes on the color of certain lights for a film not yet in production. Every time he started to speak the phone rang—it rang nine times in an hour and a half, and as the 'consultation' hadn't gotten under way then, we declared a recess and went off to tea.

"As I left the room one of the writers took me in tow and paraded me past a long line of little offices, with doors exactly alike. It was 'writers row,' where the writers hold forth. The young man with me touched my arm and, indicating the row, said, rathed sadly I thought, 'This is where genius does its stuff.'

"For the rest of the afternoon and all next day I visited with some people who told me everything you can think of about pictures. We even talked pictures on the way to the train. When I got out of the car at the station and shook hands, my host suddenly said, 'Say, I forgot to ask you. What do you do anyway?' That is what five days in Hollywood meant to me."

As I say, I've never been to Hollywood. I wouldn't know.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Cynic—It Means "Doglike".

The Greeks, who made so many of our words, never minced them.

So when Antisthenes started snarling at everything about him, became captious of everybody, misanthropic, contemptuous of the views of others, disbelieving in integrity, altruism and the efforts of his fellow citizens in behalf of decency, they called him and his followers "Dog:"—the Greek word for it is cynicus—and then considering that they had done the subject justice, they dismissed it.

Here is a word that has never surrendered its intrinsic sense; for to-day's Number One dictionary definition of "cynic" is:

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Straight Thinking.

This is my prayer, a daily one:
From crooked thinking to be free.
To know truth for itself, to find
The errors, and the falsehoods see.

Help me think straight, dear Lord," I pray.
Mind probes and turns and probes again
To seek the truth that many times
Is hidden in the joy or pain.

Made doubtful by ambition's zeal,
Concealed in many strange, odd ways
Straight thinking, that my search and goal
Throughout the length of all my days.

Pointed Paragraphs

It's a pretty safe plan to judge a man by the people he doesn't keep company with.

Words of the Wise

We should not treat living creatures like shoes, or pots and pans, casting them aside when they are bruised and worn out with service.—Plutarch.

If either man or woman would realize the full power of personal beauty, it must be by cherishing noble thoughts and hopes and purposes; by having something to do and something to live for that is worthy of humanity, and which, by expanding the capacities of the soul, gives expansion and symmetry to the body which contains it.—Upham.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Naval circles are keeping it under their hats for the time being, but the president is planning to move the United States fleet to Hawaii in the near future.

The fleet is now in California, and official reason for its shift will be the fact that Pearl Harbor is an excellent winter station.

Unofficially, however, the move will serve as a silent but powerful notice to Japan, indirectly also to the dictators of Europe. It will be similar to the sudden transfer of the fleet from the Atlantic to the Pacific last spring when the Danzig crisis first began to get hot.

For a week or so after Stalin and Hitler signed their alliance, the Far Eastern situation was in a state of flux. The alliance was a terrific blow to the Japanese, particularly to the military clique which rules Japan, and it looked as if the civilian group might get the upper hand and follow a more peaceful policy.

But now the new friendship patched up by Hitler between Japan and Russia has removed any doubt of Japan's future belligerency in China.

On top of this, inside reports are that, following their new truce with Russia, Tokyo's militarists will head for the Dutch East Indies, wealthy source of oil, to British Hongkong and perhaps to French Indo-China. With their fleets tied up in Europe, the French and British will be powerless to head off Japan. That is the chief significance of the impending U. S. fleet movement.

Spanked "Ham."

THE STORM of editorials in U. S. papers over Representative "Ham" Fish's attempt to meddle in the European maelstrom was tame compared to the dressing-down he got from other congressional delegates to the Inter-Parliamentary Union meeting at Oslo.

Fish cooked up his 30-day "war truce" scheme without saying a word about it to his colleagues. Stunned and sore at being put in a ludicrous light, they called the gangling New Yorker on the carpet and demanded an explanation.

"As chairman of this delegation," he retorted defiantly, "I didn't consider it necessary to consult anyone. And besides, I still think it is a good idea."

"Well, we don't," barked back Representative Daniel A. Reed, a fellow upstate New York Republican. "It was silly, if you ask me, and has probably made us all a laughing-stock in the papers back home. And if you think because you are chairman you are the dictator of this delegation, you've got another think coming.

"We may be in Europe, but we are Americans and we don't go in for dictators. I'll have to ask you, in the name of the other delegates, to inform the union tomorrow that you were speaking only for yourself on this screwy proposal of yours and not for the U. S. delegation."

In the end Fish backed down and agreed to do as the delegation demanded.

Special Session.

YOU can put these down as good bets on the outcome of the special session:

1. The arms embargo will be repealed and a cash-and-carry provision substituted.

2. The fight will be hot and wordy but there will be no filibuster.

3. The session will last longer than the month Roosevelt wants it to.

While the small isolationist bloc in the senate, where the deciding battle will be waged, will put up the best fight it can, privately its members admit they face hopeless odds. Their one hope is that some event abroad or some misstep of the administration will so frighten the public as to prevent speedy action, and enable the antis to drag out the fight for months while they churn up sentiment against revision.

Strategy of the isolationists will be to play for time. However, they have agreed secretly to lay off any outright filibuster. They reached this decision because (1) they haven't the strength to wage an effective filibuster; (2) they fear obstructive tactics will boomerang against them.

Great weakness of the antis is that most of the senators ordinarily hostile to anything emanating from Roosevelt are lined up with him regarding neutrality revision. Most of the Southern Old Guard is with him, and some insiders say he will even get one half the Republican vote.

Although the isolationists expect to get licked on the embargo issue, they believe they can upset Roosevelt's plan to wind up the session as soon as the neutrality act is revised. In this they expect the support of many Republicans and conservative Democrats who will oppose them on the embargo. However, administration leaders have pledged a good many G. O. P. and anti-New Deal leaders not to prolong the session.

Merry-Go-Round.

HONORABLE ICKES wasn't the only man to hit the nail on the head in forecasting war Sept. 1. George Vournas, Washington attorney, collected $700 for a similar prediction. His bets ranged from $500 with Charles Skouras, 20th Century-Fox movie executive, to $1 with Paul Williams, justice department attorney who is prosecuting the movies. . . . Saul Haas, Seattle collector of customs, may have to resign because of the Hatch Act. Saul is one of the most active politicians in the Northwest.

Hulling Clover Seed

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ONE of my neighbors was hulling clover seed. I saw the tractor and small machine pull into the open field. Three teams and wagons, with two men each, slowly wound their way along the highway, then followed the tracks the tractor had made. Even on the smooth highway and in the hard dry field, the clatter could be heard for half a mile.

The clover had been cut four weeks ago, and lay in small, bunched windrows. In lower ground the new growth almost blotted out the drab brown wavy lines that stretched up and down across the little hollows of the field.

The foremost wagon stopped at one border, the driver tied the lines back against the front upright and both men, armed with pitchforks, began to throw the well dried bunches on. As each forkfull fell upon the wagon, a little cloud of dust rose from the load and floated northward in the wind. The sickly tender stems of grass that lay beneath the windrow began to wither in the hot sun. Crickets hopped about in great profusion, when their covering was suddenly lifted off. Field mice, in moister places, had made tunnels that threaded back and forth, half buried in the turf and stubble.

When the load was completed they drove it to the waiting huller. The thresher started his tractor and soon the keen bright spikes of the revolving cylinder became soft gray lines, unanchored at any point. The dry clover straw broke, writhed and quickly disappeared within the small machine. As each succeeding bunch was placed on the moving web and bounded through the cylinder, thick clouds of dust obscured the huller, then spread thinly out along the northern portion of the field. Toward evening a thin dark foglike sheet had settled near the ground for a long distance around.

"How much seed will it make?" I asked the genial farmer.

He sifted the tiny dustlike seeds from one hand to the other, and wiped his moist forehead with a grimy hand before he spoke.

"I reckon it'll go a half bushel to the acre. I've got ten acres here. I oughta have plenty to sow next spring, maybe some to sell. Sometimes it does a lot better than this year. It's been too dry."

It was twilight when I left, and they still had two loads to thresh.

Nazis Turn Eyes on Rumanian Trade.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Germany was reported today to be trying to follow up her military victory against Poland with economic predominance in Rumania.

A German trade mission now in Bucharest was reported to have sought substantial increases in German-Rumanian trade, corresponding to the diminution of Rumania's trade with other countries because of the war.

Informants said that Germany offered payment partly in German marks, and partly in armaments for big deliveries of Rumanian oil, minerals and grains. Rumania was said to be unwilling to accept either blocked marks, which would correspond to giving Germany commodities on credit, or to take unlimited amounts of German arms.

Rumanian quarters, discussing the posibility that Germany and Russia had a secret agreement regarding Rumania, were divided in their opinions but the tendency was to believe there was no such agreement and that Rumania could rely on Russian self-interest to thwart any German drive toward the Black set through Rumania.

It was suggested also that Germany might not now desire to take too adamant an attitude toward Rumania because it might challenge Russian-Turkish dominance in the Black sea.

This speculation as based on the idea that if Rumania resisted German efforts at economic predominance, Germany might take military action by sending troops through Hungary. It was said, however, that in western Rumania Germany would not find a fertile region and that if she sought to go on to the oil fields and grain belt she might find Russia opposing her.

PUSH WORK FOR BIG OFFENSIVE

French, British Proceed With Western Campaign Program Amid Light Firing.

cess of the French attempt was not officially revealed.

At present the duel between French and German artillery is limited almost to field pieces on the French side and light guns from artillery units on the German westwall.

Military leaders pointed out that it would take a fortnight to complete preparations for a heavy artillery barrage. Hammering blows of explosives will be thrown at the German westwall here if the French decide to open their major attack in this sector.

French big guns now are in position, but their firing power is so tremendous, and their shells are of such size, that ammunition dumps must be organized weeks in advance of the barrage's opening. This careful preparation is needed to insure a steady flow of ammunition.

French mobilization, now in its 21st day, is practically complete. Observers said it was so well organized that 50 per cent of the men in certain reserve regiments may be permitted to return to their farms and bring in the harvest before they rejoin their regiments at the front.

Germans Shift More Troops to West Border.

BERLIN—(INS)—With 350,000 Polish prisoners taken and the reich's eastern enemy vanquished, Germany finally turned her full attention to the western front today.

Col. Gen. Walther Von Brauchitsch, commander-in-chief of the German army, landed somewhere on the Siegfried line after a swift flight from Poland to supervise preparations being made for the opening of full hostilities against Great Britain and France.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering recently promised that once Poland had been dealt with, 70 German divisions, numbering at least a million men, would be dispatched for service in the west. Their transportation to the west wall has been proceeding for the past week, and all is soon expected to be in readiness for hostilities.

(The London Daily Mirror, in an Amsterdam dispatch, reported that Adolf Hitler himself was leaving for the Siegfried line shortly.

Legion Leaders Honor New State Commander

SEES MYSTERY IN NAZI MOVES

loaded with a super-explosive? Or is the mystery a revolutionary type of heavy tank or a new gas? Or have Nazi scientists really discovered the long-rumored death ray?

There is a mystery somewhere. The Germans are facing a situation in which, according to all the accepted rules of warfare, they cannot hope to make a breakthrough.

Yet German troop concentrations pile up behind the west wall, great activity is observable, and the allies believe that a drive will soon be launched.

Take a look at the situation. From the Swiss frontier to the border of Holland, the Franco-German front is defended by lines of fortification of tremendous strength. Miltary experts are pretty well agreed that neither the Maginot line nor the German west wall can be broken by any military measures known to man. Yet German concentrations continue to increase.

Early in the week, allied airmen and intelligence agents reported that many new Nazi divisions were entering the area west of the Rhine in the terirtory bordering Holland and Belgium. General Gamelin and Viscount Gort considered this situation threatening and new dispositions of French and British troops were made to guard against the possibility of a Nazi drive through Holland or Belgium.

From a military point of view such a drive did not seem promising. A thrust through Holland would be out of the question once the Zeeland dykes were cut, while a flanking attack on France through Belgium would run up against forts as strong as those of the Maginot line and bring the Belgian army of half a million troops into the picture.

Late yesterday fresh German concentrations were observed in the Black Forest. This is much more serious evidence that the Nazis mean business on the western front than was the massing of troops farther north.

Many stories have come out of Germany during the past few years of the military works that have been carried out in the Black Forest. There are rumors of underground airplane hangers big enough to house half the air fleets of the reich. Also of underground barracks and railroad lines for troop distribution.

A glance at the map will show the military significance of this. The Black Forest is located midway between the two weak points created by nature in the Franco-German border. One of these is the Belfort gap near the Swiss line, the other the Moselle valley-Saar basin where the French advance has recently been taking place. Troops stationed in the Black Forest would threaten equally either the Belfort gap or the Saar road to France.

The Maginot line, then, either at the Belfort gap or in the Saar seems to be the likely German objective. But military opinion says that Hitler cannot break the Maginot line of French fortification. Apparently the Germans think differently.

RADIO 'SPOT' ON CITY TONIGHT

mention names that are familiar to all Mansfielders.

While no announcement has been made by the veteran showman, it was believed certain today that at least one Mansfield amateur will appear on his program tonight.

Greetings and telegrams of good wishes continued to pour into the New York office of Major Bowes today. Among them were wires from the county commissioners, Mansfield City council, Manufactures club, Retail Merchants association, the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, Public Park association, American Legion, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Others were from Louis Bromfield, Council of Parent-Teachers association, Mansfield Business and Professional Women's club, The News-Journal, Elks club, Gyro club, Knights of Columbus and many others.

Major Bowes has been recognized by the officials of the city in many ways: it being "Major Bowes' Day" by proclamation of Mayor Claude M. Hunter and the city council has designated the genial impressario of the Original Amateur Hour as honorary mayor of the city for the day. Other civic officials have likewise named the major as honorary heads of their departments for the occasion.

The program saluting Mansfield will be heard tonight from 8 to 9 p. m. over the coast-to-coast network of the Columbia Broadcasting System and in this locality over stations WJR, Detroit and WGAR, Cleveland.

Numerous souvenirs have been forwarded to Major Bowes by Mansfield industry for the exhibits in the Chrysler Building and New York World's Fair. Among them are a gold-plated iron, suitably inscribed for the occasion from the Westinghouse Company, a sweater-coat from the North American Knitting Company, a framed certificate of membership in the "Order of the Bath" from Hum[illegible]es Manufacturing Company.

Local florists have made arrangements to have a bouquet of flowers grace the stage of the C. B. S. Playhouse in New York where the program originates before 1,500 guests of the Major and his sponsors.

One of the most interesting phases of tonight's broadcast will be the voting on the amateur talent on the program, the votes being cast by telephone here in Mansfield and forwarded by long distance telephone to the studio in New York City from which the Major is making his broadcast.

A staff of 53 workers and special equipment on the second floor of the Mansfield Telephone company will tabulate the votes. People in this vicinity who wish to vote may do so simply by calling MAIN 9900.

While the program is concluded at 9 p. m., voting will continue until 9:30 to enable everyone in this vicinity to register a preference. Bulletins on the voting will be read at frequent intervals by Major Bowes.

Families up to three in number may vote with one telephone call, while organizations and house parties up to 25 may vote with one call. No one person may vote on two acts of the program.

VETS KNOW WAR, TALK OF PEACE

Gardner, former commander of Earle McVey post in Mansfield and former Fifth district commander, outlined his program for the state Legion.

He set a state membership goal of 60,000, pledged himself to promote the Legion's essay contest for high school pupils, and urged the Legion to work to solve the unemployment problem as one of its major goals.

Walter L. Berkley, retiring commander of McVey post, expressed his thanks to the post officers and me[illegible] for their cooperation in the past year.

Author Louis Bromfield, a guest at the party, added an assuring note in a brief talk of greeting.

"Things are not as bad as they seem in Europe and I'm sure they will turn out better than we expect," he said.

Dr. A. I. Kuntz of Fremont, Fifth district commander, installed the county and post officers, including R. M. James as commander of McVey post and Orval D. Keirns of Bellville as county commander. James succeeds Beckley as head of the Mansfield post and Keirns follows Charles Payne of Shelby as county commander.

Marshall Morr of Ashland was installed as division commander to have charge of Richland and Ashland county post activities. Frank J. Weck of Plymouth is the new division vice commander and J. E. Nimmons of Plymouth is county vice commander.

Others installed last night were:

Earle McVey post, Mansfield—R. M. James, commander; Earl Saltzgaber, senior vice commander; W. M. DeHart, junior vice commander; Chalmer B. Harris, adjutant; Harry R. Pollock, finance officer; Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, chaplain; P. C. Davis, sergeant-at-arms; color guards will be appointed by the commander.

O'Brien post, Shelby — Charles Reed, commander; Gerald Wilson, vice commander; Raymond Zeiters, adjutant; Ralph Johnson, finance officer; Rev. D. Bruce Young, chaplain; Thomas Kelser, sergeant-at-arms; Herbert Davis and William Sturts, color guards.

SEEKS SIGN FOR EVERY STREET

After the first of next year every intersection in Mansfield will be properly labeled if Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist's plan for complete identification of all city streets goes through.

He is preparing to erect markers on all streets, avenues and boulevards which have gone unlabeled for years and has requested councilmen to report the absence of any street signs in their wards.

Nist said he expected to purchase markers from street department funds so the signs could be erected by Jan. 1

THEATERS

SAMUEL GOLDWYN is making an action thriller out of the United States war in the Philippines, titled "The Real Glory." Hollywood has been playing at wars all these years, but now that it is really a fact, producers are wondering how women will react to war films. The only barometer of their reactions is the list of the ten most successful pictures in the history of the industry. Six of them were strictly war pictures—"Birth of A Nation," "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "The Big Parade," "Cavalcade," "All Quiet On The Western Front" and "The Cockeyed World." Of the other four, "Covered Wagon" and "Ben Hur," had plenty of fighting. Only two, "Snow White" and "The Singing Fool" were definitely out of the war category.

Karloff Without Make-Up.

Boris Karloff does not resort to horror make-up to portray his latest screen role, which is that of a scientist in "The Man They Couldn't Hang," but he manages, nevertheless, to run true to his reputation for chills. He plays a man who invents an artifical heart, but who is caught while trying to test it out on a volunteer student who has submitted to death. When he himself is hanged for the crime of murder, he is brought back to life by his own experiment and there follows a fantastic revenge on the jurors who had refused to believe his story. The picture will be the bank night attraction at the Ohio for Friday only.

Murder and Mirth.

Murder and mirth are mixed in "Death of a Champion," which the Madison offers for its bank night program on Friday, with Lynne Overman playing the popular fiction sleuth, Oliver Quade. Lynne is making progress at a fancy dog show selling encyclopedias when a champion Great Dane dies mysteriously and a few minutes later a dog authority is murdered. Quade sets out to solve the mystery, which only deepens, with the aid of "Small Fry" Donald O'Connor. Also in the cast are Virginia Dale and Joseph Allen jr.

Bad Egg Bogart.

Humphrey Bogart is a thoroughly bad screen egg, gets deeper in the mire of crime in "You Can't Get Away With Murder," which is a Ritz feature Friday and Saturday. The story was written by Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison and should, therefore be authentic. Billy Halop of Dead End Kids fame, supports Bogart. He plays a boy who plans a career of crime under the tutelege of Bogart. Gale Page, John Litel and Harvey Stephens are in the cast. The second feature is a Roy Rogers western.

"Special Inspector."

Charles Quigley and Rita Hayworth are teamed in a Canadian story in which dominion police are baffled by a series of fur robberies. There have been so many of them that it threatens to break one of the big fur companies. Quigley is assigned to the job and the first thing he does is fall in love with the girl he suspects as having a part in the plot. "Rhythm In The Clouds" with Patricia Ellis and Warren Hull is also being shown at the Park for the last half of the week.

Rooney as Huck Finn.

Mark Twain's beloved boyhood character of Huckleberry Finn comes to life on the screen in the film of that name and which returns to Mansfield the last two days of the week at the Majestic. Mickey Rooney plays the barefoot Missouri boy whose father was a drunkard and who was raised by the Widow Douglass and her sister. The sisters are characterized by Elizabeth Disdon and Clara Blandick while the well remembered characters of Jim, the Duke and the King are in such capable hands as Rex Ingram, William Frawley and Walter Connolly. Charles Starrett in a Western is also booked.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Girls in the upper grades in search of a new kind of a book to read might look in the display of new books in the Children's room this week. Two more books have been added with these girls in mind. No other book in the library is just like the first one which describes a girl's desire for music lessons. And it isn't often we find a brand new mystery story from Ireland.

"SHE SHALL HAVE MUSIC" by Kitty Barne — When Karen was ten she had her first chance to play a piano when she was visiting her Aunt Anne. Then her struggles to find a suitable place to practice and later to learn what she was taught keep up the interest of the reader to the very end.

"THREE TUNES FOR A FLUTE" by Rose McLaughlin Sackett—When twins are 14 and go to Ireland with an eye for adventure, something interesting might happen. Red Hugh is the right person, Blue Cottage the right place and a flute that plays in the garden on moonlight nights is a good object.

WORK STARTED ON ADDITION AT TAPPAN PLANT

Construction of $135,000 Westinghouse Bridge to Get Under Way Monday.

An industrial expansion project that will cost $100,000 was under way at the Tappan stove company and another involving the expenditure of $135,000 is scheduled to be started at Westinghouse next week.

Workmen were engaged today in the erection of a $20,000 addition at the Tappan plant which when completed will house $80,000 worth of enameling equipment.

Monday work will be started on a $40,000 overhead bridge at Westinghouse that will be equipped with conveyor system costing $95,000.

Largest of Its Type.

The bridge, said by company officials to be the largest of its type in the world will be connected with the main plant with the Vitreous Enamel works

Construction of the fabricated steel span will not get under way for several weeks but is expected to be completed so conveyor equipment can be installed before Jan. 1

Tappan officials said the enameling plant is being erected to effect economy in production of the company's products which are now trucked to Frankfort, Ind for the enameling process and then returned to Mansfield for assembly.

They expect to hire approximately 40 additional workers, all experienced enamelers, when enameling process is started here

BABY THRIVES ON MEAT DIET

WARWICK, R I —(U P)—Chosen as the "most perfect boy" in a Providence baby show, 14-month-old George Anthony Carr thrives on a diet of pork chops, steak and spaghetti.

George, who already has 12 teeth, was a "bottle" baby until a year old. Blond, he weighs 27 pounds.

"He eats almost everything now," says his mother "He has stewed fruit, cereal and milk for breakfast And he luncnes on mashed potatoes, pork chops, two vegetables and cut-up fresh fruit

"Sometimes for supper he has a piece of steak, potatoes and vegetables, or Italian spaghetti"

INSURANCE MEN LOOK FOR WAR TO STIMULATE THEIR BUSINESS

Mansfield insurance men were looking forward today to handling an increased number of life insurance policies as the result of the general business uptrend accompanying the European war

At the same time, United States insurance firms were taking steps to put "riders" in policies for protection in the event the nation is drawn into the war. Canadian companies already have inserted war clauses in their policies, reducing their liability for the death of men in military and naval service.

A number of firms in the United States already have reported marked increases in business which they said are due largely to the general business improvement.

Insurance men point out that the nation is in much better financial condition now than before the World war, because it has become adjusted to the war threat which has hovered over Europe for several months.

The extent of "war prosperity" now is expected to depend on the fate of the neutrality law and whether the nation sells to warring European countries.

The possibility of war exclusion clauses also is contributing to the increase in number of policies issued, the companies agreed.

One large eastern firm is considering a "rider" which would provide that "liability shall be limited to the aggregate premiums paid with customary adjustment if the policyholder dies outside the United States as the result of war or insurrection, whether he is in military service or not

The only restriction on Canadian policies issued before the Sept. 1 war clause was inserted voids double indemnity and disability benefits on policies held by persons engaged in war.

Canadian policyholders who engage in wartime aviation service must pay an extra charge, but there will be on extra premium for military or naval service

SINGER WAITS FOR RIGHT MAN

PHILADELPHIA—(U P)—Jessica Dragonette, stage and radio singer, said here that she would marry "when Mr. Right comes along" But denied that she had met him yet

Here for a soloist appearance at the Robin Hood Dell, she said, however, "don't get me wrong about marriage I am not against it And I think I will know when the Mr. Right does come along. Until then, well, I'll just stay unmarried"

LEADS TO JAIL

ELYRIA— (U P) —Edward Miller, 28-year-old Avon farm worker, arrived here to do jury duty, but instead spent five days in the county jail Miller stretched a 10-minute court recess into half an hour and Judge Guy B. Findley found him guilty of contempt of court and imposed the sentence.

An Important Statement From A-P About War Days and Food Prices!

A. & P.'s policy will remain unchanged. That policy is simply this. A. & P. will provide good foods at lowest prices possible. As always we will operate our stores and markets with the interest of our customers principally in mind. We know the hardships that increased food prices can bring to countless families. Therefore, our prices will be adjusted only to the extent that is absolutely necessary.

If, owing to the laws of supply and demand, the price of foods we purchase moves upwards, obviously we will have to pay higher cost and change retail prices accordingly.

You have our assurance, however, that A. & P.'s margin of profit will continue to be very low, and normal in every respect. Thus we pledge to you and our six million loyal customers the best efforts of our wide spread organization to keep our prices as low as sound business judgment will permit.

We repeat, A. & P.'s policy will be unchanged.

Physical Exams Arranged for 3,200 In Upper Grades

CHILD'S HEALTH TO DETERMINE HIS TRAINING

Physical Director Says Plan Will Be Protection to Both Pupil and Parents.

Under the supervision of the physical education department of the school system, physical examinations are being arranged this week for the 3,200 boys and girls in the city's junior and senior high schools.

According to Harry Mehock, physical education director, it is the first time in the history of the school system that examinations have been undertaken on such a wide scale.

Cards have been distributed to pupils in the three schools—Senior High and John Simpson and Hedges Junior Highs—and it is expected that all cards will have been returned to the schools by Sept. 26. The cards give the details of the examinations.

After the examinations have been taken and the results compiled, physical education training will be arranged for each pupil on the basis of his condition, Mehock said.

"We feel this program will be a protection to both the pupil and his parents," Mehock said today, "and we have definite objectives which we hope to gain from the examinations. It is unfair to any student who has a minor defect to be assigned to strenuous physical training activity, if it will endanger his future health, and participation in some types of school athletic activities may do exactly that.

Basis for Assignments

"After these examinations, we hope to base all assignments for physical education upon the findings. We want to assist the student in finding correction exercises wherever that is possible. And where it is necessary, we want to restrict the physical training program of individual students."

Students who can afford to pay are being asked to go to their family physicians for physical examinations. Students who are unable to pay for such examinations, however, will be given them free of charge by arrangement of the schools, at the buildings, with Mansfield physicians in charge.

The check-up will be a thorough one, covering feet, leg, spine, heart, lungs, glands, eyes, teeth, skin, and so on.

Mehock explained that examinations will show a student to be one of four classifications: the "athletic" type, capable of going out for varsity football, basketball or track; the normal type, who may not excel at varsity sport, but still likes to play such games, as well as others less strenuous; the restricted type, who may be overweight or underweight, or with a back deformity, for whom a modified form of physical education may improve his condition; and the fourth class, whose handicaps prevent any form of physical training.

Drivers License Sales Lag, Usual Rush Predicted

It seemed certain today that Mansfield motorists will face the usual last-minute rush to obtain drivers licenses, for with only eight days before the deadline, only a little more than one-fourth of the normal number had been sold.

Despite the fact that drivers were given an additional 10 days this year in which to buy licenses, there has been little increase over the number sold in the first six days last year, Deputy Registrar Frank Beverstock said today. Sale of the licenses opened Sept. 5 this year while they were not available until Sept. 15 in 1938.

To date 3,726 licenses have been sold as compared with 2,862 for the same period last year. The normal number sold before Oct. 1 when the new licenses become effective is 13,500. During the entire year 19,500 were sold at the auto club offices.

Beverstock said today that the registrar's office would be open four nights next week, Wednesday through Saturday, until 8 p. m.

Teacher Goes To School, Knits From 8:30 To 2 p. m.

FALLS CITY, Neb.—(AP)—Five days a week Mrs. Raymond Dunn of Shubert goes to the district 84 rural school house and knits from 8:30 to 2 p. m.

She's the teacher, but there aren't any pupils.

Five youngsters attended the school last year when Mrs. Dunn was elected to the $50 a month post, but all dropped out this year.

WPA Rolls In County Reach Peak for Year

Up and Down THE STREET

Rural residents north of Mansfield can appreciate what a blackout means to the people of Europe after their experience the other night. More than 1,400 homes were plunged into darkness when an interstate truck in attempting to avoid an accident broke off a power pole at Ashland road and Grace street, crippling the electric power in the northern part of the county for five hours.

Novelist Louis Bromfield had some fun at the expense of R. B. Gardner, state commander-elect of the American Legion, last night when he was called on to speak at a reception for Gardner. "I have decided that the rarest thing known to the human race is an honest horse trader," Bromfield said. The audience didn't get the significance of his remark until Gardner, appearing a little embarrassed, explained that he sold a horse to Bromfield last week.

When Michael Ondov paid Mansfield a brief visit recently, he said it was like coming back home again. Ondov is the Clevelander whose divinity studies at Wittenberg college were cut short two years ago when his back was broken in an auto accident near here and who spent a year and a half in Mansfield General hospital. Although one leg is stubborn in reacting to treatment, Michael's back has mended sufficiently to go without a brace and he swims daily, he says. And he is walking much more naturally with his crutches. His return to Wittenberg, however, will be delayed another year on the advice of his physician.

Members of the Mansfield high school band may have to "thumb" rides to Massillon, Saturday, if the band plays as scheduled at the Mansfield-Massillon football game. A new ruling of the attorney general prevents the use of school buses for transportation to games, forcing school officials to look for other means of getting the band to Massillon. They were soliciting motorists today to help solve their travel problem.

FALLS TO DEATH

Morrow Farmer Topples From Ladder in Barn, Killed.

MT. GILEAD—Homer Bartlett Braden, 53, well known Washington township farmer, died instantly last night of a fractured skull, apparently suffered when he fell from a ladder in the barn while doing evening chores.

He failed to return for supper and a son, Horace, found his father dead on the barn floor at the foot of the ladder which led to the hayloft.

Mr. Braden was born in Morrow county March 10, 1886 and had spent his entire life in this vicinity.

He was a member of the county board of elections, and former member of the board of township trustees and the township board of education.

His wife, Luella, survives, as do two sons, Horace and Fred, at home; a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Braden, teacher in Mansfield schools; and two brothers, Ralph, of Rochester, N. Y., and Ray, of Granger, Wash.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Craven funeral home. Dr. Harry G. Finney, of the First Presbyterian church and Rev. J. J. Adams, of the Iberia Methodist church of which Mr. Braden was a member, will officiate. Burial will be in Iberia cemetery.

TWO STRUCK BY CARS, INJURED

Ashland Boy, 6, And Man, 39, Hurt In Two Accidents.

ASHLAND—An Ashland youth and man were injured yesterday afternoon and evening when struck by automobiles in and near the city.

Wayne Chance, 6, 624 West Main street, is confined to his home with a fractured leg suffered when struck at 6 p. m. by a car driven by Robert Young of Ashland. Young told police the youth ran into the street in the path of his car.

Homer Beck, 39, of Clairmont avenue, received body lacerations and bruises when struck by a car driven by H. E. Quackenbush of R. D. 2, Chagrin Falls, while walking along route 42, near the Ashland county fairground. Beck is confined to his home.

SELECT PLAYS FOR 13TH YEAR

Community Players Decide on Dramas for First Two Productions.

Plans for the 13th season for the Mansfield Community Players took shape last night when the board of governors met at the home of Miss Faye Sutherland, Sturges avenue, and selected the first two plays.

The board accepted the two plays, "The Night of January 16th" and "Miss Moonlight," which were recommended by the play reading committee comprised of Dr. Philmour Bein, president of the board of governors, Mrs. E. K. Bacon, director of the Players, and Ben Goodenough, assistant director. Both are dramas, the first named one based on a trial in court.

For the third consecutive year the Women's Association of First Congregational church will conduct the ticket selling campaign for the Players. It will get under way some time in October.

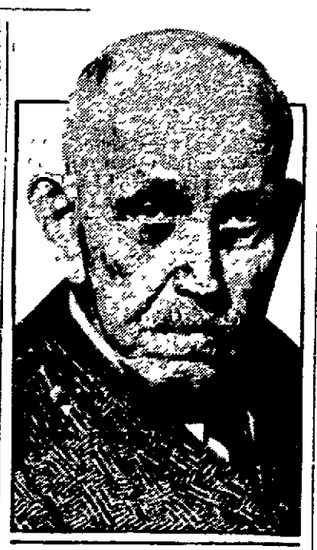
The board received two resignations last night. They were from Harry Lowrey, former president of the board and who has been identified with the Players for a number of years, and Lindley B. Smith, who was elected to membership last year. The vacancies will be filled at the next meeting.

It was also decided to enlarge the technical department. Those interested in working with scenery, either in designing or executing, can apply to Mrs. Bacon.

W. R. TINGLEY, CIVIL WAR VET AND COUNTY NATIVE, DIES AT 95

William R. Tingley, 95, Civil war veteran and one of the county's oldest native sons, died at his home, 107 Newman street, early last evening after several months illness.

His death reduces the ranks of Mansfield Civil war veterans to two, George Fisher and W. B. Hammett, surviving him.



WILLIAM R. TINGLEY

Mr. Tingley was born on a farm located where the Ohio State Reformatory now stands, on April 14, 1844, the son of Thomas and Rebeccah Stautner Tingley, who were pioneers in the county.

At that time Mansfield was little more than a village with its homes and business places clustered around the town square, while the Tingley farm was out in the woods, with only the crudest sort of roads leading into the village. There were no bridges in his boyhood and when the creeks were flooded, he had to ride or drive his horse through the high waters.

In his early years he followed farming but later became a stationary engineer, a trade which he followed until 22 years ago when he retired.

When he was 20 years old he enlisted for service in the Union army, serving a little over four months in company A, 163rd O. V. I.

Surviving Mr. Tingley are two daughters, Mrs. William Abraham of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Effie Rhodes, who resided with him; a brother, Charles B. Tingley Olivesburg road; a grandson, Russell Rhodes, and one great-granddaughter, Ruth Hawk.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday, with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer of First Lutheran church of which Mr. Tingley was a member, officiating. Full military honors will be accorded the Civil war veteran by the Spanish American and World war veterans. The body will be placed in a mausoleum at Mansfield cemetery.

RAMBUNCTIOUS!

Prisoner Doesn't Like Plymouth Jail; Brought Here, Fined.

Carl D. Lindsey, 47, R. D. 3, Mansfield, who apparently didn't like the Plymouth jail and broke up the furniture before being brought to Mansfield for safe keeping last night was fined $150 and costs and his driving license suspended for one year when he pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended $50 of the fine on condition that Lindsey pay for the damage caused during the wrecking spree.

Otis Moore, Plymouth marshal told the court that after he arrested Lindsey and put him in the Plymouth jail, the man started to break up the furniture and smashed a stove in the place.

Moore said he called state highway patrolmen who brought him to Mansfield and put him in jail here.

150 ASSIGNED TO CITY WATER MAIN PROJECT

Richland county's WPA employment rolls will be boosted to the highest figure in nearly a year tomorrow when new assignments are made to the city's $40,000 water development program which is scheduled to get under way.

A total of 150 workers are expected to go to work on the project in the morning raising the number on WPA projects in the county to well over the 1,000 mark, WPA officials said.

This is the largest number to be employed by the government since last fall when the county's $1,000,000 bridge and road program was in full swing.

Work on the project which involves the construction of new water mains on five different streets will be started on Woodland road where a six-inch line will be laid from Andover to Russell road.

Other extension include new mains on Fifth avenue, Grover avenue, Lincoln avenue and School road. In all approximately a mile and a half of new lines will be laid.

Worw For Four Months.

The project is designed to employ 150 men for a four-month period.

WPA officials said the new assignments would include workers who were laid off last month by the federal government's 18-month rule.

Of the total amount of the project, the city's share is estimated at $16,669 which will be used for purchases of the pipe, while the government's share has been estimated at $23,935 for the labor.

Meanwhile Parks Superintendent Frank R. Burton said 40 workers employed on the parks rehabilitation project were moved to Prospect park today to complete improvements on the grounds.

Monday they will be shifted to South park to continue the rehabilitation work which includes the cleaning of the stream, terracing of the banks and construction of wading pools.

The workers yesterday finished excavation work at Maple lake removing more than 5,000 cubic yards of dirt fro mthe lake basin.

STILL PANTING

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—California panted damply through the sixth day of what weather experts were beginning to call the Pacific coast's most oppressive and extensive heat wave.

Throughout southern California temperatures remained generally above 100, and even in the San Francisco bay area, normally brisk and breezy, they were near that mark. Los Angeles reported 19 deaths induced by the weather.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Ireland Gaining Itself No Sympathy By Twisting Tail of the British Lion

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The human race day by day becomes more remindful of the wrestler who, in an enormous confusion of moist and slippery meat, clamped a toe hold on a foot which happened into his grasp and, to the tune of his own agonized whinnies, continued to twist until he broke his own ankle.

Thus the Irish echo of New York reports that on a recent evening in Belfast, rebels against the "foul oppressor" in Buckingham palace expressed their sympathy with the enemies of the British empire by converting an air raid blackout into a fiasco of bonfires and rockets.

They filled old motor tires with paper soaked in gasoline, hung them on the crossarms of the blacked-out street lamps and set them afire in gesture of sympathy for any Nazi bomber who might have happened that way.

The grievances of the Catholic, or Free State, Irish against the British empire are famous the world over, and any attempt to outlaw them on the ground of antiquity can be destroyed by citations from the record of the black and tans, as brutal a crew as ever dragged a Jew from his family midst in Germany and beat him to death with bats.

It seems impossible that the spying of the Gestapo in Czechoslovakia or Poland was any more treacherous of the cruelty of those terrorists any more vile than that of his late majesty's riff-raff in the days after the war to safeguard minorities.

Yet in their efforts to sabotage the British war against Hitler, such Irish rebel spirits unavoidably, if reluctantly, place themselves on the side of another tyrant who is at least equally fiendish in his oppression of proud, honorable peoples who are, largely co-religionists of the Irish.

It were juvenile indeed to say that the British in this present war are fighting to avenge Hitler's crimes against the Catholic Bohemians and Poles, but at least they are fighting the man and the system.

And if Irish opposition through sabotage and spying against British shipping and the fleet should finally turn out to be exactly the factor which defeated the British and French, then Ireland would win her last degree of freedom at the expense of two of the small but equally decent religious and long suffering peoples not very far away.

Nevertheless, the opportune time to kick an oppressor is when he is wholly engaged in fighting someone his own size or bigger, and even though the disorders of the Irish rebels be unofficial, the perpetrators command the same admiration and benevolence that one gives to rebellious Czechs and Poles.

Not only these Irish, who seem to be an incorrigible minority, but a number of Americans, including many of Irish ancestry, find themselves currently engaged in anti-Semitism here. This movement is an import from Germany and is distinctly ersatz, or phony, but some of those engaged in it, even members of the Catholic church, claim to believe that the Jew is Christianity's enemy.

In baiting their Jewish neighbors, however, they collaborated with Hitler, who then suddenly dropped anti-Semitism and joined a political, economic and military offensive alliance with Soviet Russia which Hitler once denounced as a Jewish-Bolshevik state but which, nevertheless, strangely, always refused to accept Jewish refugees from Germany.

Hitler is anti-Christian himself, having long ago created a special god, a caricature of Christ, who acknowledged the Nazis as his chosen people and excluded from his love, or even his tolerance, all persons not of German blood.

Now, those who would still persecute Jews as infidel Bolsheviks find themselves still committed to Hitler and frisking his literature for material against Jewish Bolshevism while the Nazi and Soviet armies both mop up Catholic Poland in the most harmonious cooperation. And, finally, although there are three million Jews in Poland, Stalin ignores them as an oppressed minority or a minority soon to be oppressed, and put in a claim for only the White Russians and Ukranians.

As Hugh Johnson often says, it just doesn't make sense, to which one may add, "Thank God!"

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It'll be disillusioning to all the little working girls who think of heaven as marriage to a millionaire and endless leisure and travel, but Lilian Bond says very firmly that leisure and travel, at least, aren't all they might be.

Lilian is back before the cameras. She left when she married Sidney Smith, the wealthy man-about-the-world, and the screen lost one of its prettiest brunet glammer gals.

"I never meant to quit working," said Lilian Bond Smith, who says she has separated from her husband. "I thought we'd settle down in New York and I could go on the stage if I wanted to. But all I did was travel.

"We couldn't stay put. By train, plane, boat we were always on the go. We'd arrive somewhere, and then we'd be on again. I feel as if I've seen the world—but the way I'd see it on series of penny post-cards: a quick glimpse of many places, no opportunity to explore or get acquainted with any of them. Get to London, and we've got to be off to see somebody in Wales. Arrive in Vienna, and there's a party we must attend in the south of France. Go, go, go.

"I'm not panning the life of leisure—except that I found it wasn't for me. It's all right for people who've known nothing else but leisure and amusement-seeking, but I've been a worker most of my life and I have to work or I'm not happy.

"I've settled down in a real house—I lived in an apartment before—and I think I won't travel for a long time. Excuse me—they're calling me back to the set."

So I watched her go back to work. She got into an automobile beside Kent Taylor, and together (with the assistance of a couple of workers jiggling the vehicle out of camera range) they "traveled" away—but for a scene in "Sued for Libel."

Jane Withers' screen name in "High School" is Jane Wallace—a fact for Withers glee. It means she can add her movie riding boots, gauntlets, and several dresses, monogrammed J. W., to her personal wardrobe. . . . The Ritz Brothers, who played with Jane in her latest picture, "Pack Up Your Trouble," have departed the lot, their contract finished, and will be in "The Hit Parade" at Republic. . . . Oddity is that, in the Withers film, the Ritzers refrained from tearing themselves to pieces in the quest for laughs, may be better received than in other pictures wherein they worked too hard. . . .

Speaking of Ritzes reminds me I saw a Yacht Club boy the other day. . . . There aren't any Y. C. boys any more: the quartet has dissolved. Jimmy Kern, the handsome juvenile of the gang, is screen-playing (with Bill Conselman) the Dave Butler production of "That's Right, You're Wrong!" . . . (the Kay Kyser musical). . . . But the 20th lot apparently can't get along without a nutty foursome: it's been flirting with The Nonchalants, an acrobatic juggle-and-tumble comedy gang from Earl Carroll's stage show. . . .

Tips For Care of Complexion

By MME. QUI VIVE

Many a woman who inherited a skin of good texture and delicate coloring has to content herself with one that is not up to beauty par because she didn't know how to take care of it. The complexion doesn't always have clear sledding. Dust and soot are destructive elements, and the atmosphere of cities is full of floating debris. Strong sunlight toughens the epidermis. Winds and icy blasts rumple it.

That the complexion improves under continued and faithful attentions is plain to any observing eye. After a rousing facial the skin is fresh and glowing for days.

Blood streams that are on the go impart becoming coloring to the complexion; not only that, the blood has nutritive powers, carries good groceries to cells and tissues. It makes repairs too. We mention this in the hope that it will catch the eye of the lazy lassie who hasn't discovered the marvelous benefits of outdoor life and regular daily exercise.

Food plays a part. Heavy eaters have coarse, florid skins; nibblers have pale ones. A lack of fats makes for a dry, scaly surface; too much excites the sebaceous glands, spreads on a film of oil that even the busiest powder pad can't mop up.

Even the best of complexions have their bad days. A digestive upset may produce a yellow cast; a restless, sleepless night may bring a gray appearance. Therefore, beauty quester, make every effort to take care of your health, plan a tranquil, well-ordered existence.

Local treatment consists of scrupulous cleanliness, faithful lubrication to offset general wear and tear and to ward off wrinkles, light friction to act as a stimulant. Begin early and you will reap rich rewards.

Every human face is entitled to a thorough scrubbing at night with a bland soap and plenty of hot water. A clean, fresh washcloth every day is what the beauty doctor orders; soiled ones are an abomination. Fluff up a rich lather. Wash your eyebrows thoroughly, they are busy little dust catchers. With the suds on the face, pinch the flesh lightly; that practice forces the soap into the pores, acts as an insurance against blackheads.

Rinse with warm water and remove every particle of soap. Dry with gentle pats with a soft towel. Ply the massage cream, spreading it on with flattened fingers, always moving upward and outward. If lines are forming give them a brisk runaround, sending one finger in tiny circles. Give your face a brisk slapping.

In the morning use cold water freely. A one-minute ice friction is a splendid means of keeping tissues firm and to awaken the circulatory streams.

Don't overlook the matter of hygienic habits, because health is the foundation of beauty and charming appearance.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Before we go into my little study where we shall be free from interruption," I said hurriedly, "I want your promise to have luncheon with us. If, as you said, our conference is to be a brief one, we shall have finished by the time luncheon is served. And Katie and Jim will look after Otto in the kitchen."

"My dear lady!" he said. "I am desolated to have to refuse an invitation to one of your luncheons—"

"Katie's," I said smiling.

"Be that as it may, I know only too well what I am missing. But I finished a most hearty luncheon not ten minutes before I telephoned you. I could not possibly eat another mouthful, and I am sure Otto could not either."

I reflected a little grimly that if his master were replete with food, Otto's chances of gleaning any extra calories were nil, whether he craved them or not. But aloud I only said:

"I will not press you then. But I really am very sorry. Shall we go into my study?"

"Please sit down," I went on, "while I convey to Katie the sad news that you will not be our luncheon guest today. I shall be back in a minute."

"I don't think you will have to waste much time in consoling her," he said dryly. Once outside I fairly ran to the kitchen, for I wanted to make sure I did not overstep the time limit I had given Lillian.

"Neither Mr. Veritzen nor Otto will have luncheon, Katie," I said breathlessly. "Mr. Veritzen says they already have lunched."

"Tank the good Lord I no have dot old stuffed shirt!" she exclaimed. "But I tell Jeem to call dot poor Otto in. I gif him someting hot."

Mr. Veritzen was standing in front of the fire when I returned to my studio. He whirled at my entrance and, with his usual formality, put me into the easiest chair and drew another opposite me for himself.

"It has been a long time since I have been in this room," he said.

"I have been away so much that I rarely use it," I said. "But my father is engaged with Mr. Underwood and the men he is planning to use in the pursuit of Jack Leslie, and this is really the only room where we can be free from interruption. But my father is likely to send for me at any moment, so if you don't mind, I would like to hear what you wish of me."

"It's very simple," Mr. Veritzen said. "I must call rehearsals of your play almost at once. They have been delayed too long already. Under the present circumstances, will Mary be able to attend the rehearsals?"

—Advice—

Smiles at Girls; She Worries

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

What do you think of a man who, when he is out walking or in public with his wife or a lady, smiles at every girl who happens to come along? And these, Miss Fairfax, are perfect strangers to him.

There are times when we are waiting in the theater lobby and he hears a girl talking or saying something funny, he will deliberately turn 'round and smile or laugh with her.

A READER.

If he takes his admiration of the fair sex out in smiling, better let him have that little diversion. If his admiration went deeper, he would probably not show it so openly. Give him a chance to grow up. You've seen nice friendly little babies in carriages, who smile at everyone, even going to the length of saying "da da." The gentleman is just innocent, according to my diagnosis.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

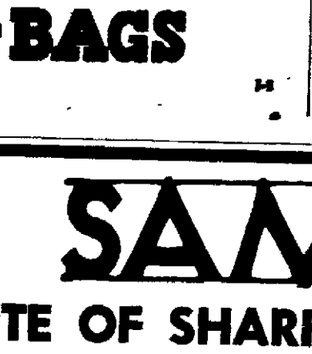
By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

GOOD FOR OTHER USES

Many players make the mistake of thinking that a hand containing no honors except in an extremely long suit is of no use except for play in that suit. This may be so if the suit is headed by the king or perhaps the ace and then a drop to the jack or lower.

But if the suit is a solid one, headed by the three top honors, it may be just as useful at No Trumps as at its own suit. In fact, if your partner has some side suit stopped by a mere guarded king, the only possible good contract in the hand may be No Trump. Playing it at spades may mean that the guarded king gets led through, instead of up to, which may upset your entire apple cart.



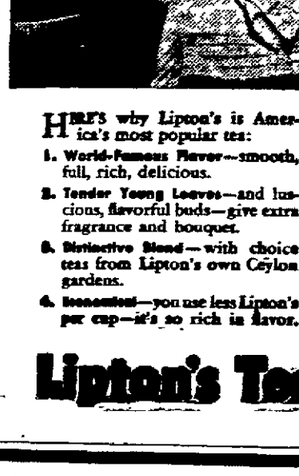
(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

North went into one of those queer panics which hit some players with long suits, when he heard his partner's 1-Club on this deal. He bid 3-Spades, crowding the bidding in a way seldom done by a really fine bidder. There was no hurry. South then bid 4-Diamonds, North 5-Spades and South 6-No Trumps. North should have realized here that his own funny bidding had made the nature of his hand clear to his partner and should have passed, but he was still in his panic and so bid 7-Spades. This went down two against East's heart lead.

Better bidding after South's 1-Club would have been North 1-Spade, South 2-Diamonds, North 3-Spades, South 4-Hearts, North 4-Spades or 5-Spades, South 6-No Trumps after either of these, and then a pass by North. This could not have been beaten by any defense.

A heart lead would have set up the twelfth trick in that suit, a club lead would have done it there, and a lead of anything else would have compelled South to try the obligatory club finesse, which would have worked.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is the soundest bidding of this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Sept. 22

MOST propitious and progressive signs are noted in this day's planetary positions. These may be suddenly and dramatically precipitated, and may carry ambitious persons to high stations of attainment. An adventure or a spectacular experience may be involved. If not in connection with a unique or novel invention, the thrilling experience will be in romantic realms, with elopement or sudden marriage among the probabilities.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which there may be a thrilling adventure. Whether in the realm of science invention or just sentimental romance, the experience is bound to be spectacular and of throbbing enjoyment to "parties of the first part," as well as to the public.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

SOCIETY HORIZONS FILLED WITH EVENTS

Mrs. Charles E. Nail, Miss Elizabeth Albers, Miss Josephine Henness Among Those Feted Last Night.

EVIDENTLY entertainment for brides and brides-elect of the city are of such proportions these days as to crowd stories of other things quite off the social horizon. Many functions were held last night, among them a party for Mrs. Charles E. Nail, Miss Elizabeth Albers and Miss Josephine Henness.

The Misses Mary Elizabeth Miller and Mary Lou Hout feted Mrs. Nail with a dinner party yesterday evening at the Hout home on the Ashland road. Mrs. Nail was Miss Vivian Bailet before her marriage of June 5, which was announced at a tea earlier this month.

Dinner was served to the guests at one long table, which was centered with an arrangement of grapes on a mirror surrounded by tall white tapers. Bridge was the evening's diversion at four tables, and prizes were won by the Misses Maxine Kaufman and Kay Baker. Miss Jean Henry was the recipient of the traveling prize.

Mrs. Nail was summoned to the hiding places of the guests' miscellaneous shower gifts by the ringing of alarm clocks at 15 minute intervals, during the evening. The hostesses presented her with a chaisette.

The Misses Emily Cox, Doris Goodenough and Ruth Locke, Mrs. Robert Oberlin and Mrs. Edward Fatkin are planning to give a breakfast for Mrs. Nail next Sunday morning at the Susie Janis home on the Park avenue west road.

Another in the series of prenuptial parties honoring Miss Albers was given yesterday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Miller, 12 South Adams street. Mrs. LeRoy Grant of Vermilion was the associate hostess.

The guests played bridge at three tables during the evening, and prizes were won by Miss Mercile Miller and Mrs. M. L. Barnett. The honoree received a shower of miscellaneous gifts from the guests, and the hostesses presented her with a silk comforter.

Luncheon was served buffet style at the close of the games. Mrs. Henry Albers, mother of the bride-elect, presided at the buffet table, which was centered with a bouquet of orchid and yellow asters and lighted with tall yellow tapers.

Miss Albers will become the bride of Francis R. O'Brien on Sept. 28 at 9:30 a. m. before the altar of St. Peter's Catholic church.

Members of Beta chapter of Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority entertained with a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Henness last evening at the home of Mrs. John Courtney, 26 Highland avenue. Members of Delta chapter of the sorority were guests at the party.

Bridge was in play at four tables during the evening, with prizes going to the honoree and Mrs. Earl Herrick. In addition to the shower gifts from the guests, Miss Henness received a gift of hammered silverware from the Beta chapter.

Luncheon was served from a buffet table which was decorated with a centerpiece of fall flowers and tall white tapers. The guests were seated at small tables centered with flower bowls filled with baby mums in autumn shades.

Miss Henness, who will become the bride of John K. Chatlain of Chicago, Ill., at 11:45 o'clock Saturday morning at the Central Methodist church, is being honored with a spinster party at the Susie Janis home on the Park avenue west road this evening. Miss Dorothy Yauger and Miss Marianna Crips, a cousin of the bride-elect from Chicago, Ill., will be hostesses for the affair. They are both members of Miss Henness' bridal party.

Inter-Club Event Sept. 26; Dental Surgeon To Speak

Dr. Weston A. Price, Cleveland dental surgeon, will be the attraction at Westbrook Country club next Tuesday when the study club season gets started with members of nine organizations in the city attending. The joint meeting this season is in charge of the Travelers' club with Mrs. E. R. Hartman as general hostess. Other clubs attending include the Conversational, Cosmopolitan, Journey, Round Table, Sappho, Sororis, Tourist and Victorian.

The guest speaker is the author of "Nutrition and Physical Degeneration" and he will speak on "Nutrition" Sept. 26 at the luncheon.

Mrs. J. C. Stout, Mrs. B. W. Forkner and Mrs. Harry Bowers, Tourist club; Mrs. C. H. Huston, and Mrs. L. A. Peck, Victorian club; Mrs. Avery Hand, Round Table club will also serve as hostesses.

Garden Tea Attended By Republican Women

P. T. A. Work Launched In Two More of City's Schools

TWO of the cities' P. T. A. organizations launched their fall and winter program last night with business meetings and programs. When the Hedges group met in the annex W. L. Leedy, president, introduced W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools, and H. W. Arlin, member of the school board, who talked on the proposed remodeling of the building, and Mrs. Gordon Colby, who told of the school flower shows.

Mrs. Glenn Pore, Mrs. George Berg and Miss Margaret Wheeler were named delegates to the state P. T. A. convention in Columbus, and Miss Marjorie Gongwer was named alternate to the city P. T. A. council.

The organization discussed new recreational facilities for the school, and Mrs. Fred Stahlheber announced the garden club prize winners following which a flower show was conducted.

A covered-dish dinner was served preceding the meeting, and a program including songs and dances by Norma Scott and Gene Gump was presented by Mrs. Carl Lang, chairman.

The next meeting will be Oct. 18 with "Radio and the Home" as the topic for the session. Major D. R. Brown of the Salvation Army will be guest speaker.

Committee heads were named by Fred Tracy, president of Western Avenue P. T. A., last night when members met at the school. They are Mrs. F. J. Lictenberger, membership; Mrs. Carlton Fernyak, health and summer roundup; Miss Florence Conn, publicity; Mrs. W. C. Fort, parent education; Mrs. J. H. Boyd, jr., magazine and publications; Mrs. K. E. Buhr, art; Mrs. Sherman Wentz, music; Miss Rebecca Grubaugh, hospitality; Mrs. Clarence Ackerman, legislation; Mrs. George Smith, ways and means; Mrs. F. E. Domer, religious education, and Mrs. Charles Farry, program.

Alvin Fankhauser, Mrs. Howard Miller and Mrs. Walter Spencer were named to the P. T. A. council delegation, and Mrs. H. L. Longsdorf of the Town and Country Garden club announced that Hazel Donelson had won the city first prize, David Wentz, fourth prize, and Susan Belle Biddle and Marian Gilbert, honorable mention.

Mr. Fankhauser spoke on the three mill levy, and Mrs. Wentz gave a program of music and talk entitled "American Song Hits." The hospitality committee served refreshments, and the next meeting was announced for Nov. 8.

ROUTINE SESSION.

There were 15 members of the St. Agnes guild of Grace Episcopal church in attendance at a regular meeting of that group in the undercroft of the church yesterday evening. During the business session plans were made for corporate communion to be held for all members at the church service on Oct. 1. This will be followed by a dinner for members of the guild and their families. Mrs. R. J. Hancock served refreshments at last night's meeting, and Mrs. Ralph Harris will be hostess at the next meeting on Oct. 4.

FORM CLUB.

Students of the Warner Beauty school recently gave a party in honor of the September graduating class and organized a school club. This group will be called the "WBC" club, and will meet under the supervision of Miss Lora Fellmy.

Prospect Group Begins Program

There were 76 persons in attendance at the covered-dish dinner and card party of the Prospect Park association in the pavilion at Prospect park yesterday evening. Dinner was served at three large tables decorated with bouquets of fall flowers.

Auction bridge and five hundred were diversions of the evening. Charles Payne and Mrs. Glen Collins were the bridge prize winners, and J. W. Peyton and Mrs. Virgil Farst received the five hundred awards. Hosts for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Don Orewiler, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gabor, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Vaughn.

Another meeting will be held at the park pavilion on Oct. 18, with Mr. and Mrs. George Stuhldreher, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Refenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Kessell, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Ohl, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Cleland as hosts.

Miss Benson To Serve Second Term As Chief

Miss Edythe Benson was re-elected president of the Dorcas Missionary society of St. Luke's Lutheran church last night when a pot-luck supper was held at the church. Miss Florence Nail was named vice-president, and Miss Eleanor Ford will serve as secretary while Mrs. Lester Dye performs the duties of treasurer.

The meeting was in charge of Miss Benson and Miss Nail led the devotions. Plans were made to have a Thanksgiving program, and Miss Ruby Myers gave the lesson. The next meeting will be Oct. 18 at the church.

Miss Mary W. Wiltrout Bride of Columbus Man

Mr. and Mrs. Elmore S. Wiltrout, 11 Cappeller court, announced today the marriage of their daughter, Mary Ward, to Miles A. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay E. Smith, Columbus. The wedding was an event of Sept. 18 at the Broad Street Presbyterian church in Columbus.

The former Mansfield girl attended Mansfield Senior high school and Ohio State university, and had taught at Brinkerhoff school for nine years. Mr. Smith is employed in publicity work for the state of Ohio. After Oct. 1 the couple will be at home at Olentangy Village in Columbus.

SESSION HELD.

When the meeting of the Second District of the First Lutheran church was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Hugh Parry, Ashland road, Mrs. E. W. McCready gave a reading, led the devotions, and presided over the busines meeting. Mrs. J. R. Turner gave "Life and Works of Gene Stratton Porter." Mrs. S. D. Hoover was associate hostess.

TO PICNIC TONIGHT.

Final plans for a picnic to be held at North Lake park tonight were formulated yesterday evening when members of the Miriam Rebekah lodge met at the I. O. O. F. hall. It was announced during the business session that Mrs. Leota Falkner, district representative of the lodge, would be present for the meeting of Oct. 4 with a report of the recent Ohio Rebekah assembly. Card games were the diversion of the evening. The sewing circle members will meet on Oct. 4 too.

POSTPONE SESSION.

The Loyal Women of the First Christian church will meet next Thursday night instead of tonight as was originally planned.

Personals

Mrs. C. B. Maces and children, Cleveland, is spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Bartko, 21 Hammond avenue.

* * *

Mrs. Della Richardson and her son, James, 19 Penn avenue, have just returned from Chicago, Ill., where they were visiting with their son and brother, Sherman W. Richardson, and other relatives.

* * *

Charles V. Ireland, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Ireland, 24 Glessner avenue, is at Wooster college where he is studying for the ministry. He has served as choir director at the First Methodist church here.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. B. Loef and Ned Burbridge, Kenosha, Wis., have returned to their home after visiting over the week-end with Jennie L. Ackerman, 79 Reba avenue. Mrs. Loef and Mrs. Ackerman are sisters.

Auxiliary Plans Red Cross Work

Members of Auxiliary No. 100 Sons of Union Veterans agreed last night to do Red Cross work for the duration of the war when they met in regular session in the Memorial building with Mrs. Hazel Brannon. They also made tentative plans for a fall benefit to be held at the Children's home with Mrs. Grace Downs as chairman. Mrs. Thelma Hartman is Red Cross chairman.

The mystery prize was awarded to Mrs. Treva Campbell, and Mrs. Ruth Gerhart, chairman of the social committee, assisted by Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Hartman and Mrs. Edith Snyder was in charge of a program of games and contests and the serving of refreshments.

Mrs. Ella McHugh is chairman for the program on Oct. 4.

FETED ON BIRTHDAY.

Mrs. Myron Lee honored her daughter, Norma Jean, with a party yesterday evening on her 16th birthday at the family home, 101 Raleigh avenue. The 13 guests in attendance played games and contests during the evening with prizes going to Miss Ruth Thomas and Thomas Beechy. Refreshments were served at small tables decorated with pink and white appointments. The honoree received numerous gifts from the guests in celebration of the occasion. Out-of-town guests present were Leo, Harry and Alberta Hitchcock of Perrysville, Thomas Beechy and Ross Arnholt of Loudonville.

NAMED PRESIDENT.

The new president of the Lady Samaritans elected yesterday at the covered-dish dinner meeting at North Lake park pavilion was Mrs. Clyde Constance. The other officers are Mrs. Victor Rinehart, vice-president; Mrs. William Brickley, secretary, and Mrs. Ray Tingley, treasurer. There were 11 present. The next meeting will be Oct. 11 at the pavilion.

AUTUMN WEDDINGS EXCUSE FOR PARTIES

Pre-, Post-Nuptial Events Keep Mansfield's Younger Set Busy With Entertaining; Brides-to-Be Honored.

PRE- AND POST-NUPTIAL EVENTS continue to be of major importance in the social field this week as a variety of showers of unusual aspect are given by friends of recent brides and brides-to-be. The Misses Dorothy Altaffer and Leota Pittinger and Mrs. Thomas Holmes were hostesses at the Susie Janis home for a party in honor of Miss Kathleen Hawley.

The event was a crystal shower at which the guests played bridge with prizes being won by Mrs. Fred Kintlinger and Mrs. Wilbur Upson. The 14 guests were seated at a table decorated with an orchid and yellow floral centerpiece. Each place was marked with a miniature crystal vase filled with orchid and yellow pompons. The hostess gave Miss Hawley a gift of crystal.

Miss Hawley will become the bride of Colison Holmes at the First Lutheran church at 10:30 a. m. Sept. 30. She will be feted Friday night at a party given by Mr. and Mrs. Upson, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lewis at the latter's home.

* * *

An informal dinner and miscellaneous shower was given by Miss Ann Nagel, 40 Wolfe avenue, last night in honor of Mrs. Henry Schlayer, the former Miss Ruth Bohland. The table was decorated with fall flowers. Later in the evening contests were conducted.

Prizes were awarded to the Misses Hester Shade, Marjorie Reynolds, Magdalene Bohland and Barbara Jerger. The winners gave their gifts to the recent bride.

The former Miss Vera Reinoehl who became Mrs. Jesse Keller Sept. 15 was feted last night at a post-nuptial kitchen and spice shower. Mrs. Leo Graham, 58 South Foster street, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Harbaugh and Miss Betty Robertson, was the hostess.

Contests were conducted with prizes being won by Mrs. L. E. Sharrock, Mrs. Neil Swank and Miss Florence Smith, who gave their awards to the bride. Red and white appointments were used on the buffet table which was centered with white asters. A telegram delivered to Mrs. Keller directed her to the shower of gifts.

Miss Dorothy Selby, who will become the bride of Jack Davis on Oct. 14, was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given at the Mansfield-Leland hotel last night by the Misses Marjorie Logan, Marjorie Brooks, Marjorie Leonard and Elizabeth Leap.

Bridge was played at three tables and the Misses Georgia Barrett and Marjorie Oswalt won the prizes. A bride's book was made after which a dessert course was served at a long table decorated with pink and white asters. Individual corsages were presented as favors. The hostesses gave the bride-elect a gift of crystal.

Mrs. Cox, Canton, Talks Before 125 At G.O.P. Affair

A talk on the importance of women's activities in the United States was presented yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Catherine Neff Cox, North Canton, state committee woman, when Mrs. Franklin Bissman opened her Bigelow road home and gardens for the tea of the Republican Women's Council. Mrs. Carl Spangler presided, and introduced W. J. Locke and G. E. Kalbfleisch, and the guest of honor to the 125 women present.

Mrs. Claude Ewing and Mrs. H. H. Clingan, vocalist and organist respectively, led group singing. It was announced at this time that the council will have a covered-dish dinner and business meeting at North Park Sept. 27. Plans for a tea for all Republican women were also announced.

The latter affair will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Oct. 11 between the hours of 2 and 4 p. m. by the chairwomen and workers of the Richland County Republican Women's organization.

Pastor, Down Early, Puts Up Game 11-Round Challenge

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

ONE of the best painters of word pictures in the fiction field, Francis Wallace, also a gridiron expert, took his typewriter on the limb to punch out a yarn about football for the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

His "Pigskin Review of 1939," as the article is labeled, presents a personal view of the forthcoming collegiate football races.

While there will be many contradictory arguments, Wallace's size-up is not much unlike the predictions of other experts.

As for the mid-west, the section which attracts this town's chief interest, Wallace says the champion may come from any one of seven teams. But, as the season begins, Northwestern, Notre Dame and Michigan are his selections.

Minnesota and Ohio State, consistently touted as champions for the last few years, will be in a more stragetic spot, with the pressure off this time. Wallace believes.

But there is a genuine disposition throughout the middle west to "fear Purdue," Wallace contends. Wisconsin is expected to be better. Illinois will be adequate, and Bob McMillin will have another efficient team at Indiana, without outstanding stars. Iowa is on the rebound. The material at Chicago is simply not up to Big Ten standards.

Marquette, according to Wallace, is coming up with its best team, and Charlie Bachman will have another good club at Michigan State.

Fordham Headed for Big Season—Wallace.

FORDHAM seems headed for its most successful season, Wallace figures, and, if the Rams do as he prophesizes, they will be national champions. Carnegie Tech, generally rated the Eastern champions in 1938, has a chance to repeat. Holy Cross will be up there, so says Francis.

The purification policy will begin to be felt at Pittsburgh, and Dartmouth assays below last year. Pennsylvania hopes to do better. Columbia figures to be weaker. Harvard will again have a well-drilled outfit. Princeton is optimistic, but perhaps over-optimistic, Wallace warns.

Reports on Yale are dismal. Army and Navy will have sturdy teams. Brown will have a tough team, and Syracuse is definitely improving. Andy Kerr will have another capable team at Colgate. Duquesne hopes to see a turning point for the better.

"Duke, unscored upon last year until the final minutes of the Rose Bowl game, again figures best in the famous Tobacco Triangle," Wallace writes. Clemson, which upset Tulane, will again be surprisingly strong. He speaks well of Wake Forest, too.

Tennessee, Alabama, Tulane and L. S. U. will not only battle for southern honors, but will be very much in the Bowl discussions, he predicts. Georgia is also coming back, but Georgia Tech fails to show any signs of startling improvement.

Arkansas Granted Chance In Southwest.

T. C. U. has the nucleus of another fine team in the Southwest conference, but Arkansas is granted a chance to win the title. Southern Methodist is the real "dark horse." Texas definitely will be better.

The race in the Big Six will be among Oklahoma, Nebraska and Missouri, while Southern California is the team to beat on the Coast, Wallace claims in his article in the popular weekly magazine. Stanford is well regarded.

End of Heavy Title Hunt

The world's heavyweight championship fight in Detroit between Champion Joe Louis and Challenger Bob Pastor virtually began with Pastor on his knees and ended, in the 11th round, that way. Pastor, shown on his knees in a dazed condition, got up after four knockdowns in the first round to stage an amazing rally only to weaken again in the 11th round of what was to have been a 20-round battle. It was Louis' eighth successful title defense.

By GAYLE TALBOT

DETROIT — (AP) — A crushing right to the jaw sent little Bob Pastor to his knees, dazed and helpless, in the 11th round at Briggs stadium last night, and Champion Joe Louis had snuffed out one more fighter who made the mistake of facing him the second time.

The blow so numbed Pastor's senses that he didn't hear as the gray-haired referee, Sam Hennessey, tolled 10. They had to lift him to his tired legs, and he mumbled apologetically: "I didn't see the punch. I didn't see it coming at all."

* * *

It must have been a deeply satisfying victory for the big, vacant-faced Negro, who was defending his title for the first time before cheering "home folks," a great number of them of his own race. Joe looked as nearly happy as he ever looks.

He had knocked the New York Jewish boy down five times in the first two rounds, and then, after what he described as a "breathing spell," had dropped him with a single blow, clean and neat. It was what he had dreamed of doing ever since the night 30 months ago that Pastor had danced around and taunted him in Madison Square Garden.

Some of the experts were saying after the fight that Joe wasn't the Brown Bomber of old, else he never would have let Pastor get away from him temporarily after he had slugged him to the canvas repeatedly at the outset of the battle.

But "I knew I was in there for a 20-round fight," said Joe in the usual Louis dialect. "I wasn't in any hurry at all after I hit him so much there at the start. But when I sat down at the end of the tenth I felt strong and fresh, so I told "Chappie" (Jack Blackburn, his trainer) that I would get him the next round. Didn't I, Chappie?"

"Thass right," said Blackburn, solemnly.

It wasn't a particularly brutal fight. Pastor, who weighed 183 and spotted Louis 17 pounds, came out of it with a gash on his left eye-lid and a slightly bruised face. Louis had a mouse under his left eye.

Pastor got in some pretty good licks, first and last. Once, in the eighth round, he stood Louis up against the ropes and whaled him right smartly. In fact, long after the scrap was over, he kept insisting to his manager, Jimmy Johnston: "I can punch with that guy, Pop."

From the end of the second round until the 11th, when the lights went out, the game New Yorker came along better and better. He was doing all right until he failed to see the pay-off punch.

* * *

Louis in all probability will not pull on the gloves again until he fights Tony Galento next summer. He's about fought himself out of opponents, for one thing, and he has his eye on his income tax, for another.

Net gate—$296,000.
Louis' share—40 per cent of net receipts (approximately $118,000).
Pastor's share—17½ per cent of net (approximately $52,000).

Massillon Gives Snydermen Idea Of What to Expect In Latin Rout

Reds Are Good When Walters Takes Mound

Right Hander Enables Cincy to Hold Margin Over Cards by Trimming Phils.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The Cincinnati Reds, it became increasingly apparent today under the pressure of the September stretch drive, are two kinds of a ball club.

They are very good when Bucky Walters or Paul Derringer is on the pitching mound. They are very bad when anybody else pitches.

Walters was in the box yesterday, and they beat the Phillies, 3-2, and preserved their 2½ game National league lead. As horrible as the Reds were when the Phils slugged them, 13-1, Tuesday, they played clean, errorless ball yesterday and twice came from behind to enable Walters to win his 26th game.

Walters himself scored the winning tally in the ninth. He was hit by a pitched ball thrown by Boom Boom Beck, took second on Werber's sacrifice, and scored on Ival The Terrible Goodman's single after Frey had been purposely passed. Frey's homer had previously tied the score.

In scoring his 26th win Walters hung up his fifth straight and went the route for the 29th time in 33 starts. He is the first National league hurler to win 26 games since Carl Hubbell turned the trick in 1936.

Clinging desperately to pennant hopes, the Cardinals slugged Hugh Casey out of the box and battered the Dodgers, 10-4, for their third straight. Stu Martin hit a homer with two on and Don Gutteridge hit one with the bags empty.

Carl Hubbell outdueled Bill Lee to score his 10th victory as the Giants triumphed over the Cubs, 4-2. Hub gave up only eight hits.

Cleveland took over undisputed possession of third place in the American league as the Indians conquered Washington, 7-2. Mel Harder set the Senators down with six hits. The Indians scored five runs in the first inning before anybody was retired.

The Yanks scored their 101st victory by defeating the White Sox, 8-4. Steve Sundra won his 11th straight game although giving up 11 hits, including homers by Kuhel and Rosenthal.

Frank Hayes' triple in the 13th enabled the Athletics to nose out the Tigers, 5-4.

The Browns slugged out 22 hits, but it took them 16 innings to beat the Red Sox, 11-8. Hoag, McQuinn, and Gallagher each made four hits.

'Tigers Have Attack Precision That Coaches of Ohio Conference Would Envy,' Clevelander Says.

"They threw the football book at Latin last night," a Cleveland sports writer told his readers the day after Massillon's 40 to 13 rout of Cathedral Latin.

"The Tigers have an attack precision that would bring a sigh of envy to several Ohio conference coaches," he wrote. "Like a smart fighter, the Tigers first stunned the Latins by running from their own 44 on fourth down and four to go when the game was two minutes old—and running it for a touchdown, a piece of daring that bespoke championship confidence."

The writer also went on to tell that the Tigers fooled the Latins with a seven-man line that broke away a tall colored boy at end, Horace Gillom, for another. They mousetrapped tackles and ends repeatedly for long dashes by Red James and George Slusser, flashy, speedy runners. They outsmarted, outblocked and outpassed a smart, hard-blocking, good-passing Latin outfit throughout the first half. The Latins didn't make a first down until well into the third quarter.

Then the Tigers let up a bit and the Latins scored on three straight passes and a buck. They repeated in the last minute of play with a sneaker play in which Ed Prokop hid on the sidelines and caught a long pass. But the Tigers, meantime, were adding two more touchdowns of their own.

This is the kind of football the Tygers of Mansfield high school will have to face Saturday afternoon when they go to Massillon to engage the Tigers in the fourth game of a series originated in 1936.

But Mansfield understands the caliber of ball presented by the Massillons pretty well. They know there are several factors, and certainly chief among them is Coach Paul E. Brown, who quarterbacked the 1924 and 1925 Massillon elevens.

Brown started coaching nine years ago at Severn, prep school for the Naval Academy, and lost one game in two seasons. Then on to Massillon, and only seven defeats in 71 ball games.

Massillon's system is built around a single wingback in box formation behind an unbalanced line—like Columbia's and Purdue's. Brown has another system, which some of his opponents call "Massillon's farm system," a system, incidentally, which Mansfield hopes to match some day.

It works out this way—the town has three junior high schools which pour its boys into one high school. Each junior high has a football head coach and an assistant. They teach the Brown system, and by the time he reaches Brown's varsity—and his three assistants—the Massillon footballers have had three or four years of that training behind them.

Brown is also a showman. His boys come on the field in batches of 11 and jog its length, flipping the football. They are flashily dressed. No Massillon player ever flops on the ground during time out (and neither do Mansfield's Tygers, by the way).

A capable musician, with popular orchestra background, directs Massillon's band. Four short-skirted majorette-cuties also catch the eyes. A kid in genuine tiger skin (cost $400) cavorts with the band.

All of these things helped Massillon draw 120,000 fans last season.

Another factor in Massillon football is the booster club. It got started in the depth of the 1932 depression, when some of the town's football-minded citizens learned that several of the high school boys weren't properly clothed, and, in at least two cases, weren't getting enough to eat at home. So they chipped in. The club now lists 700 members.

When Mansfield goes to Massillon Saturday, it will play in the new $112,000 stadium, one of the finest in the state.

Regulars Pressed as Madison Preps for New London Contest

ONE of the greatest battles ever staged at Madison high school for varsity berths is being waged this week as the Rams prepare for their tussle in New London at 3 p. m. Friday.

Coach Al Fendrick was well pleased with the showing made by the reserves in a scrimmage with the varsity this week, and today indicated that one or two first-string men may be on the sideline Friday.

The reserves showed in the scrimmage that they have not given up the battle when they scored on the varsity the first time this season, a Hammer to Windsor pass providing the six points.

Although battling one of the biggest foes in the school's history, Madison came out of the Wooster tilt, which it dropped, 25 to 13, in fine shape.

The little Rams absorbed all the punishment the big Generals could provide without a whimper, and Fendrick believes their ability "to take it" will make Madison a stronger club.

As New London opens its season with the Madison team, Fendrick has no idea how powerful the Wildcats will stack up this year, but he understands a number of veterans have returned.

The Rams trounced New London by a 76 to 3 margin last year, but no repetition of this score is expected. Madison is considerably weaker than the 1938 eleven, while New London is believed to be stronger.

The heavy end of the Madison attack for the Rams again Friday is expected to be carried by Doug DeNero and Dave Weimer.

The Madison squad will leave the high school at 12:30 p. m., Fendrick said.

Butler at Home, Bellville on Road.

RICHLAND county's other two Class B schools playing football also are scheduled Friday afternoon.

Butler, which will play without Letterman Bob Kunkle, suspended indefinitely by Coach Bob Burgett for breaking training rules, is host to Centerburg, beaten by Bellville last week.

Bellville invades Granville where first-class teams are developed annually, and the host club should offer the Blue Jays more trouble than they encountered in their opener.

Pastor Realizes It Takes More Than Courage to Beat Louis

By HYPE IGOE

DETROIT—(INS)—Brave Bob Pastor today knows that it takes considerable more than courage, light taps and university learning to knock Joe Louis off his golden heavyweight throne.

The N. Y. U. student tried all three of them in the Briggs stadium here last night and finally landed on his face after 38 seconds of the 11th round, brought down cruelly with a short left and right to the jaw.

Pastor had been on floor four times in the first and once in the second round after a murderous bombardment and got up to continue to the round in which his quest for the title ended.

Strangely enough Bob didn't seem to be nearly as badly hurt as he had been in those two first, heart-breaking periods. As he hit the floor his face skidded along the rough canvas.

He had been drilled to the marraw. You could tell that because his eyes rolled horribly and his black mouth-piece drooled out from his lips.

"I didn't know I was on the floor until I heard the referee roaring eight into my ears and then it was too late. I didn't know what had hit me or why I was on the floor," said Pastor in his dressing room ten minutes later.

* * *

Pastor was dancing around and bothering Louis with speedy sidestepping when the chain-blows crumpled him. The ending came with such blinding swiftness the great crowd didn't even cheer the champion's conquest.

When they helped Pastor to his chair in the corner he kept looking up into the face of Jimmy Johnston, his manager, asking pitifully:

"What's the trouble, Pop—what's the matter? Did I win or did I lose."

SPORTS BEST RECORD

Northwestern university's football team of 1938 compiled the best defensive record of any of Ohio State's 1939 opponents from the standpoint of guarding its goal line. Only two teams crossed the Wildcats' goal line last fall—five teams were shut out by Lynn Waldorf's gridders.

O. P. S. Can Win Loop Title Today

The pace-making Ohio Public Service entry will attempt to annex The News-Journal Class B golf league championship today in postponed matches at Possum Run.

The Servicemen tackle the Mansfield Metal Vaults, while their nearest rivals, Harvey's Sample Shoes, tangle with the defending championship Bissman company team.

In the other contests, postponed since Aug. 3, toss Al's Kicks against the Central Fruit foursome, Auxter Motors against The News-Journal and the Elks Lodge against the Richman Clothes.

FINDLAY OILERS GAIN EDGE OVER LIMA CLUB

LIMA— (AP) —Findlay's Oilers held a three-to-two margin over the Lima Pandas as the clubs returned here today for the sixth game of the Ohio State league championship series.

Breaking a four-all deadlock, Findlay pounded across five runs in the sixth inning last night to lead the way to an 11 to 7 victory. They added two more in the eighth after Lima scored one in the seventh and two in the eighth. Earl Roth, Findlay's righthander, registered his 22nd victory of the season, allowing 10 hits.

NAGURSKI WINS

ST. LOUIS—Bronko Nagurski, 235, International Falls, Minn., threw Jim Morgan, 275, Genoa, Tex., (10:19).

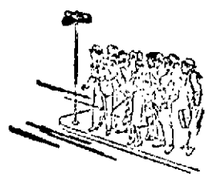
THIRD OHIO CAPTAIN

Steve Andrako, Buck football captain for 1939, is the third center in four years to lead the Ohio State eleven. Gomer Jones in 1935 and Ralph Wolf in 1937 were the others. Wolf was co-captain.

NEWARK — Rudy Strongberg, 219, Germany, threw Rudy Dusek, 218, Omaha, (19:34).

POTENTIAL TIMBER

Editors of the "Illustrated Football Annual" have selected two Ohio State gridders as potential all-America timber. They are John Rabb and Don Scott, both backfield members.



The Fun Begins an Hour From Now

YOU'LL SEE IT PASS like a silver flash! But don't waste time staring after a 1940 Nash. Get in the driver's seat . . . for that's where the fun begins.

Turn the Weather Eye to the comfort you want. (It offers new conditioned air wonders this year.)

Just a nudge of your toe, and a hundred-odd stampeding horses lift you ahead. Then—a click—a rush—and a new Fourth Speed Forward lends soft wings to your ride.

A Sunday driver ahead? Don't worry. There's something new in the throttle—the Nash Automatic Overtake. Just press your toe—and leave him dawdling in your dust.

There's riding magic, pure and simple, in the Arrow-Flight Ride. Miraculous result of new springing combination . . . so smooth, so level, so silent, you might be in your easy chair!

Can you be blamed if nightfall finds you far away, sleeping under the stars in your Nash convertible bed?

We're asking you, with nothing but your own preferences and instincts, to get behind the wheel of a 1940 Nash. For ten glorious minutes—that's all.

Then decide if any other car today can give you as much down-right fun as this new, lower-priced Nash!

Speed to Be Keynote Of Supplies' Attack

WITH several weeks of drills behind them, the Automotive Supplies were pronounced in good shape for their opener with the Akron O'Neils at Blue Goose field next Sunday by their coach, Earl McMullen.

Speed rather than heftiness has been the cry of McMullen, and, apparently, he has succeeded in rounding up a fast aggregation.

Backs who are expected to help provide the speed are Joe Miller, one of the greatest fullbacks ever developed by Al Fendrick at Madison high; Willard Lockhart, another Madison alumnus, and Vern Heiser, a veteran semi-pro star.

But not all of the speed will be confined to the backfield. McMullen has also been fortunate in obtaining linemen who can move on the offense. Their speed will tend to quicken the attack, the Automotive Supplies' coach believes.

Among the linemen McMullen will use against the Akron club are Elmer Dials, who has quit Ohio State to take employment in the city; Gaylord Bucher, former all-Ohio guard, and Paul Sturgeon.

All are products of the J. Russell Murphy type of football in which McMullen also is well drilled.

McMullen said today that daily practice sessions will be held during the remainder of the week in preparation for the opening tussle.

New Rival for Scott Found In Jack Graf

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Sophomore Jack Graf of Upper Arlington served warning by air today that he will be serious rival of Don Scott, Canton junior, for the No. 1 quarterback job of this fall's Ohio State football squad.

The black curly-haired yearling gave the finest individual performance of the 10-day practice season yesterday, tossing three touchdown passes and completing several others for sizeable gains.

Graf, weighing 196 pounds and speedier than Scott, has been heaving passes with deadly aim during the past week to advance faster than any other man on the buck squad.

His tosses featured the longest scrimmage of the season as a white eleven defeated a blue outfit, 30 to 13. Graf passed to Charley Anderson, Massillon, for a 60-yard gain to tally one touchdown; heaved a second score to Sam Fox, sophomore end from Washington, D. C., and tossed the third one to John Newlin, junior end from St. Clairsville.

Fox raced over the goal line after a 40-yard gain while Newlin's counter came on a 30-yard play.

The fourth white touchdown resulted from a Scott-to-Jim Strausbaugh pass for a 25-yard gain. Charley Maag accounted for two white points by blocking a kick and falling on the ball for a safety.

The blues talked their two touchdowns on freakish plays. John Simione hurled a long pass to John Santschi, sophomore end. Johnny Rabb, now playing fullback, rushed in to intercept the ball but the pigskin bounced from Rabb's hands into Santschi's.

PARMALEE YIELDS TWO HITS AS COLONELS WIN

LOUISVILLE — (U.P.) — The Louisville Colonels who finished no higher than fourth place during the regular season went ahead 2 to 1 today in the finals of the American Association playoffs.

Roy Parmalee, veteran right-hander, held Indianapolis to two hits and fanned 11 batters last night as the Colonels won, 4 to 3.
